Action on Iran Shelved 10-2

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—On a motion py U. S. Secretary Byrnes, the United Nations Security Council today shelved the Iranian case until May 6—but the decision came only after Australia's representative had blasted Soviet Ambassador Gromyko's walkout and accused the Council of failing to do its duty. Nine of the Council's 11 members voted for the Byrnes resolution based on Russia's flat promise to the Council that all her troops will be withdrawn from Iran by early May.

Voting for the Byrnes resolution were China, Netherlands, France, Mexico, Poland, Britain, Brazil, Egypt and the United States.

Gromyko's continued absence counted for one vote against the resolution and the abstention of Australia's W. R. Hodgson from casting his ballot for the other.

After Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala had stated his governments acceptance of the deferment and Byrnes had thanked the council members for adopting his resolution the council adjourned until Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Byrnes declared Russia's assurances should be accepted as satisfactory and that by deferring the case now the Council could ask reports on it May 6—by which time the Russians should be out of Iran. Council President Quo Tai-Chi of China said he hoped Iran and Russia would settle all their troubles and make further discussion unnecessary.

Hodgson said Gromyko's walkout a week ago had "prejudiced the work, efficiency and authority of the Council," that the decision to deter the case should not have been made until after full investigation, that Iran's complaints were being handled as a political incident rather than a whole vital situation.

In his broad accent of the man from "down under" he emphatically told his dignified colleagues "this case was a challenge to the Security Council and in our opinion the Council did not meet it."

Pepper Blasts 'Ganging Up' On Russia

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Sen. Pepper (D.) of Florida asserted in the Senate today this country is joining with other nations in "ganging up on Russia"—a contention which Sen. Hatch (D.) of New Mexico promptly and hotly disputed.

Declaring anybody who raises a voice in support of Russia is called a Communist, Pepper shouted he is not going to vote for continuance of Selective Service or for military appropriations "to use our forces to protect the rotten status quo in the world today."

Sen. Pepper

Pepper said this country seemed to be joining with Great Britain in a "Siamese-twin fraternal alliance" directed against the Soviet, and asserted:

"Secretary of State Byrnes better change his policy or his actions will belie his words."

"I strongly deny that implication contained in the Senator's words that this country is ganging up with any other country against Russia," Senator Hatch retorted.

Declaring this country should use its efforts to cancel all single-nation mandates and place dependent peoples under United Nations trusteeships, Pepper shouted:

"I haven't seen the Secretary of State, as a gallant knight, riding to the liberation of Indonesia, where some of our lend-lease equipment has been used to shoot down people who are seeking liberty."

Asailing what he termed "British imperialism," Pepper said he felt the British were making only a "sanctimonious pretense that they offer freedom for everybody."

"They are for freedom for every Englishman and that is about all," he declared.

Pepper said he had been told that Britain had made Iran a "treaty dependency' 'and had gone so far as to send along a doctor "whose purpose it was to spy on the regent" of Iraq when the latter visited this country at the invitation of the President.

Russians Get Full Text of Note to UN

MOSCOW, April 4 (AP)—The Soviet press published without editorial comment today a Tass dispatch from New York giving the full text of the note which Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko delivered to the United Nations Security Council yesterday.

The dispatch, appearing in all Moscow papers under the headline "In the Security Council," evoked little discussion here.

U. S. Solons Linked To Communist Party

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, April 4—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R.) of New Jersey today termed the secret testimony before the House committee on un-American activities of Louis Francis Budenz, former top official in the Communist party who returned to the Catholic Church, as the most devastating evidence of the Moscow-directed conspiracy for the overthrow of the American form of government.

"The testimony of Budenz also shows that the Communist movement in the United States is better entrenched than ever before in our history," Rep. Thomas added. Rep. Mundt (R.) of South Dakota, another committee member, also commented on the startling revelations, at an executive session, of the grip of the Communist organization on the American way of life.

Mundt revealed that Rudenz had promised to appear at an open hearing in the near future after assembling documentary evidence.

Unpublished and off-the-record declarations of Budenz, ex-member of the Communist hierarchy, before the committee included the following:

There are several representatives or senators in the U. S. Congress who are members of the Communist party. There are others in Congress who are acknowledged Red fellow-travelers, preferring that status for strategic political reasons.

The Soviet Union has a smoothly organized espionage ring in the United States aiming at obtaining the atomic bomb secret and other top military data.

Every Communist party member and fellow-traveler is a potential espionage agent.

There are Soviet secret police operating in the United States, checking up on each other, as well as on Soviet espionage agents and Communist leaders.

The Communist party comprises about 50,000 due-paying members.

However, Budenz added, there are 100,000 to 150,000 disciplined Communist fellow travelers and 500,000 "bleeding hearts" for the Red movement.

Budenz named the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee and the council of American Soviet friendship, both under investigation by the House committee, as old-time Communist fronts.

He also branded the new "win the peace conference" which is holding forth in the Commerce Department building here on Friday as an unquestionable Communist front organization.

In a formal statement on his testimony before the committee, Budenz said:

"In responding to the subpoena of the committee, there is no disposition on my part to pillory any individual Communist. Quite to the contrary, I pray for each and every one of them every day, that they may abandon their atheistic and anti-American affiliation.

"Among Communists in this country, there are many who have become such out of an original sense of social injustice but who are now most unhappy in their association.

"I told the committee of my hope that many of these people will realize the sedition against the United States of which they are in grave danger of being guilty.

"To confuse labor and the Communists would be a grave mistake, I told the committee; but to neglect the education of the American people to the anti-American intent of the Communist organization would be a profoundly unpatriotic act."

Gambling on High Seas

LOS ANGELES, April 4 (AP)—Tony Cornero says he's going back into the business of providing ways for the would-be lucky to gamble on the high seas.

In 1939, Cornero saw officers toss overboard much of the equipment from his luxurious gambling palace Rex. The Supreme Court ruled while the Rex was anchored three miles off Santa Monica it still was within jurisdiction of California's anti-gambling laws.

Now Cornero has purchased the Arcostook, a 386-foot ex-Atlantic coastal steamer, in Navy service since World War I. The Los Angeles Times said his operations would be patterned after the trips of the old La Playa of the 1930's, "which took passengers on a 'cruise to nowhere' but did not open the gambling rooms until 12 miles at sea."

Cornero said:

"This time I'll be perfectly safe. There'll be no way they can stop me from operating."

But State Atty.-Gen. Robert F. Kenny said: "Regardless of where he is on the high seas, if he is . . . inducing citizens to go out and be fleeced, he comes in our jurisdiction . . ."

Scheduled locale is off Malibu Beach, where many movie stars have homes.

8000 War Brides, Children Unclaimed

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—At least 8000 war brides and children of American servicemen are stranded overseas and cannot be brought to the United States, the War Department disclosed today, unless the husbands and fathers take action.

Likewise stranded are some "war bridegrooms"—alien husbands acquired by WACs and nurses.

The War Department reported that through March 31 a total of 20,675 dependents—14,966 women and 5709 children—had arrived in the United States and an additional 2000 are en route. During the next three months 40,183 are scheduled to reach this country.

That leaves approximately 8000 dependents who apparently are eligible for transportation, but whose papers are not in order, or whose transportation to the United States has not been requested by servicemen husbands or fathers. The War Department attributes this situation to failure of some GIs to understand the proper procedure, but it did not rule out the possibility of wartime marriages gone awry.

Typhoon Strikes Northern Luzon

MANILA, April 4 (AP)—A typhoon is crossing northern Luzon and winds of "full hurricane force" prevail in the straits between Luzon and Formosa.

The storm was moving at nine knots to the northwest and may curve toward Formosa.

The Navy reported no major damage to installations in the Philippines.

Gloria Starts Drive to Win Public Favor

NEW YORK, April 4—Gloria Vanderbilt, 22, heiress, was back in town today with her gray-haired husband and a prefabricated campaign to woo public favor featuring a middle-aged "friend of the family." The publicity campaign, latest development in the battle between Gloria and her mother that began when the girl cut off Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt's annual allowance and suggested her mother go to work, was launched in a modest little Manhattan room.

It consisted of one part Gloria posing in a demure shirtwaist dress, one part a typewritten statement to reporters, and a third part the selfstyled "friend of Gloria's for many years."

Reporters and photographers were invited to her midtown apartment by Gloria for an "interview." It began with Gloria entering and saying, "hello," reached a climax with Gloria posing for 150 pictures while the typed statement was being distributed, and ended with reporters asking questions that went unanswered.

GLORIA AT "INTERVIEW"

The statement declared the wife of musician Leopold Stokowski "had a natural filial regard for my mother," and that Mrs. Vanderbilt would never "suffer privation due to the lack of the necessities of life."

"Now, now, now! We mustn't ask Mrs. Stokowski any questions!" chided the middle-aged man who identified himself as Malcolm Lovell of New York city.

"If she can pose for 30 minutes for photographers, why can't she answer a few questions" demanded a reporter.

"Because I always say there was only one Franklin Delano Roosevelt who could really answer the press questions," Lovell insisted. "You must remember Gloria is just 22 years old, a mere child!"

"When I was 22, I had a job and was supporting my mother," another reporter said.

"Gloria has no desire ever to cut off her mother completely," Lovell said, but refused to ask Gloria to second his motion. "In two or three days, Mrs. Stokowski will have another statement to make to the press, one about the foundation she has organized for underprivileged children."

Neither the E. 53d st. mansion nor the room in which Gloria received her guests was in the style to which the public likes to think the Vanderbilts are accustomed.

In a hall room in the rear of the fifth floor of the glorified rooming house, the poor little rich girl, heiress to $4,500,000, received her invited guests.

TO LONDON—Pretty Carol Raye, British screen star, bids good-by to her husband, Capt. Clark F. Spencer, Boylston st., Boston, in New York before her flight on Pan-American Clipper to London where she is to star in two technicolor films. Capt. Spencer is well known in Hub business circles.

Blinds Blonde In Taxi Tryst

Temporarily blinded by fluid she claimed was thrown into her eyes by a sailor when she resisted his advances, Mrs. Menicia Estey, 35, estranged wife of a Newton man, made her way today to Cambridge City Hospital.

When she first arrived at the hospital in the early morning she told police she had been attacked by seven men in an auto but later told of meeting the sailor. She claimed he threw the liquid in her eyes from what appeared to be a whisky bottle.

The woman, mother of two children, said she had been seeking work yesterday in the Brookline area and last night had gone to a Scollay sq. restaurant where she met the sailor.

She said they had some drinks and the sailor offered to take her home in a taxicab.

She said he began to make advances in the cab and, when she resisted, showered her face with liquid from the bottle, telling her she would never see again.

Breaking from his grip, she continued, she opened the door of the cab and jumped out but she did not know where she made her escape. A motorist drove her to the hospital.

Hospital officials said she was being treated for eye injuries and that her vision was returning slowly.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 4 (AP)—A strong wind blew open Mrs. Earl Shears' purse yesterday and whisked $315 in greenbacks into the air at a crowded downtown intersection. With the aid of two newsboys and a policeman she recovered all except $110. Mrs. Shears had just borrowed the money from a loan company.

Curley Hopes Son Shuns Politics

Although he has appointed his son, George J. Curley, 27, as an assistant secretary in the mayor's office, Mayor Curley hopes it will not be the start of a political career. Asked if George intended to enter politics, the mayor said:

"I hope not. It is too tough a career and I don't think it advisable. I was reading in a book the other night that the head of a city usually winds up either in the poor house or in jail."

George, who entered the Navy as a seaman in 1942 and was recently discharged as a lieutenant, has been on the city payroll since Monday.

Today's 'Butter' Story

FITCHBURG, April 4 (AP)—What do hard-headed citizens discuss when they meet in a tavern?

Sometimes it is the hardness of their own heads, Fitchburg police reported today, taking an Ashby resident to the hospital.

It seems, police said, that the gentleman from Ashby and a boilermaker — not otherwise identified—disputed the relative thickness of their own skulls.

They withdrew to opposite ends of the 30-foot room and then ran toward one another, crashing head-on.

Apparently the Ashby man lost, for he required five stitches in his scalp.

Real Murder Sequel to Muni Film

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (AP)—A real-life slaying today climaxed a party celebrating conclusion of a gangster movie when police found Edward W. Gray, 31, a studio electrician, dying beneath a film set backdrop.

Det.-Sgt. Stanley W. Johnson said Gray, who succumbed in a hospital, was murdered, his skull fractured, his jaw broken and his palate pierced.

Paul Muni

As often the case on conclusion of filming a picture, the cast and crew of "Angel on My Shoulder" joined in a party at the general service lot. Paul Muni, gangster-star of the movie, was host. Others attending included the leading lady, Anne Baxter, and supporting players Kurt Kreuger and Joan Blair, studio sources said, but all had departed by 10 p. m., several hours before Gray's body was discovered.

Muni's last scene was laid in hell, with Claude Rains playing the devil. Rains departed when shooting of the picture ended about 6 p. m.

The electrician, father of three children, was found beneath a 60-foot seascape backdrop. He could not have fallen, Johnson explained, because scaffoldings would have broken the plunge.

Hunt Business Foes In Jeweler Shooting

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Boston American Staff Reporter

CRANSTON, R. I., April 4—Police revealed today they were working on the theory that the gunman who shot and seriously wounded Christopher L. Migliaccio, 50, wealthy jewelry manufacturer, Tuesday evening, may have been hired by jealous business enemies.

The victim, shot three times when he answered the back door of his palatial Narragansett ave. home in the Edgewood section, is on the danger list at Rhode Island Hospital.

Detectives disclosed that a woman neighbor had provided a description of a man she saw walking up the driveway of the Migliaccio estate at 7:15 p. m. Tuesday, a few minutes before the president of the highly successful Hingeco Vanities Co. was wounded.

She was Mrs. Clara J. Cannon who lives diagonally across Narragansett ave.

"I was walking up the street," she said. "I saw a man going up the driveway. I just glanced at him as I passed.

"As I walked along I heard what sounded like a shot. Then another. I thought somebody might be shooting at a target so I hurried on for fear a shot might come near me. I did not see the man again."

It was from employes of the victim that investigators learned Migliaccio had business enemies, police reported. They said the firm had made sizeable profits in business deals and that Migliaccio recently started a $50,000 boat-building business as a hobby.

Detective John F. Ryan, who questioned the victim today at the hospital, disclosed that a boat company employe had left Migliaccio's home shortly before the gunman arrived. He was Harry Hadley who had called to give his employer $250 in cash and some papers in connection with the sale of a boat. Ryan also learned that Hadley was the first person Migliaccio telephoned after the shooting.

"I'm shot, Harry; come right over," he said.

Howling Success But Howled Down

MADISON, Wis., April 4 (AP)—Walter Stimple's experiment of taking an infant son to class at the University of Wisconsin, approved by a professor, was a howling success, but it didn't work out.

Prof. Chester Easum agreed to allow Stimple to bring his year old son to a World War II history class after the returned veteran said his wife became ill and could not care for their son.

"Let's try it," Prof. Easum told Stimple.

But Master Stimple commended his father's undivided attention. When he refused to stop crying, Stimple picked up his textbooks and notes and his son and went home to a University trailer camp.

Harvester Frm Machine Stike Nearing End

By Associated Pns

Settlement appeared nminent today in one of the natin's longest current strikes, the 9-weeks-old work stoppage by 3000 CIO farm equipment workrs employed in International Iarvester plants, as negotiators wee reported agreed on all except one issue.

This was reported to be allowance rules for piece workers under which they would get average earnings for time lost during machinery breakdowns or similar slack periods.

In the soft coal dispute, operators threatened to force a showdown on wage and hour demands by John L. Lewis, president of the AFL United Mine Workers, who has refused to discuss these issues pending an agreement "in principle" to his proposals for a health and welfare fund and for improved mine safety.

Meanwhile, the shutdown of the mines spread idleness to the steel, railroad and other industries, and the transit strikes in Detroit and Akron, O., continued, with no indications of immediate settlement.

60c. Wage Floor Gets Senate O.K.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Senate approved today a compromise proposal to put a floor of 60 cents an hour under wages of persons covered by the wage hour law.

It adopted, 79 to 6, an amendment offered by Sen. Ellender, (D.) of Louisiana, to pending legislation to lift the present 40 cent minimum. Final action was still to come on several other controversial points.

The 60 cent minimum would become effective 10 months after the bill becomes law, applying to workers "engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce."

The Senate's action eliminated a committee-approved proposal for a wage minimum of 65 cents—and later 75 cents—as well as application of this to workers in activities "affecting commerce."

Foley revealed the probe, being carried out by ity Auditor Fox, will go to the Suffolk County grand jury if any irregularities of a criminal nature are uncovered.

Before completing his report on the investigation, Fox said he intends to question the 50 persons.

He said he discovered certain payroll discrepancies while making a routine audit. According to other sources, the alleged discrepancies extended over a 28-month period.

Robert E. Cuniff, secretary of the Boston Finance Commission, said his organization is closely following the progress of the probe. "We are not making a separate audit," he said, "but we are awaiting the report of Auditor Fox before taking separate action."

It was learned that signatures on pay checks already have been disowned by a number of persons who had been employed in the building, but whose names allegedly were kept on the payroll for some time after their employment ceased.

The city of Boston administered the Houghton & Dutton Bldg. from June, 1943, to October, 1945, using a portion of it for city departments handling aid and information for veterans and renting some to federal agencies.

When a department head retired at City Hall a few months ago he requested a routine audit of his department, and it was this audit, it was learned, which disclosed the alleged evidence of payroll padding.

Fire Bells Echo Wedding Bells

Joseph Freeman, 63, Rutherford ave., Charlestown, stood before Judge Brown in Suffolk Superior Court today to appeal a two months' sentence for ringing in a false fire alarm.

Two policemen told how they had been assigned to watch the firebox at Union and Washington sts., Charlestown, where several false calls had been sounded. At 1 a. m., March 20, they saw the defendant pull the box. They arrested him.

"Your honor," began Atty. James J. Kiley, defense counsel, "this man is the father of six children. That day was his 43d wedding anniversary. He had had some drinks to celebrate and thought the occasion warranted something unusual. As a result—"

"Say no more," interrupted Judge Brown. "File the case."

Terminiello Fights Conviction in Riot

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—A fine of $100 was the penalty set by a municipal court jury which convicted Arthur W. Terminiello, suspended priest, of disorderly conduct in connection with a speech at a meeting conducted by Gerald L. K. Smith.

Counsel for Terminello, who was charged with "creating a diversion tending to a breach of peace" during the rally, moved for a new trial and said that because issues of civil liberty are involved he will appeal directly to the U. S. Supreme Court if his motion is denied at a hearing Monday.

Slain Wife's Kin Battle Pardon For Dr. Joss

AUGUSTA, Me., April 4 (AP)—Vigorous objection to a pardon for Dr. Merrill E. Joss, 39, former Richmond physician serving 10 to 20 years for the 1941 bludgeon death of his physician-wife, Luverne H. Joss, was registered with Gov. Horace A. Hildreth today by Mrs. Joss' brother and sister.

Declaring in a wire to the Governor that a pardon, sought by Joss, would "send on the American public a vicious maniac," Henry T. Harris and Rosalee Harris Wright of Mobile, Ala., said "he killed our sister, his wife, in a cleverly arranged plot."

Gov. Hildreth and his executive council had under consideration Joss' request after a hearing yesterday.

Harris and Mrs. Wright asked the Maine executive and his advisers to hold their decision until Gov. Chauncey Sparks of Alabama "contacts you." Mrs. Joss was a native of Jackson, Ala.

"We have no money to fight, but are depending on your integrity and our many friends to help," the wire to Hildreth said.

Joss, who was born in Portland, Ore., has served nearly five years of his sentence. He was indicted for murder but a superior court jury convicted him of manslaughter.

Several women tearfully had begged for his freedom during a pardon hearing.

"Please, Gov. Hildreth and council, give Dr. Joss back to us—we need him so much," begged Mrs. Nellie Thomas. "Give this innocent man his freedom."

When he was tried on a first-degree murder charge, the state charged Joss kicked his wife down the cellar stairs and battered her head against a wall so he might marry a younger woman.

His attorney, Ernest L. Goodspeed, who handed the governor pardon petitions, signed by 600 Richmond townspeople, said Joss knew nothing of the attack on his wife until he found her dying.

Leonard C. Monahan Of Braintree Dies

Leonard C. Monahan, 55, of Hawthorne rd., Braintree, vice-president of Forty Fathom Fish, Inc., of Boston, died today at Weymouth Hospital after a six-weeks illness. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Grace Barter Monahan; a daughter, Mrs. Frances Griffin, and a son, Lt. Richard Monahan, USAAF, who is flying home from Japan.

Funeral services will be held Saturday with a high mass of requiem at the Church of St. Thomas More, Braintree. Burial will be in Blue Hills Cemetery.

2000 Hail Italian Woman Killer of British Captain

ROME, April 4 (AP)—Two thousand screaming women broke through police barriers in efforts to kiss the hands of Lidia Carillo today when she went on trial for slaying a British army captain whom she said she killed "to defend Italian women."

Batteries of floodlights and motion picture cameras centered attention on Lidia, current heroine of the Italian press. She told how she discovered the captain was married and that he had "tired of me and fallen in love with another woman."

"I would have killed him on the spot," sch asserted, "when he told me that Italian women had no right to pretend anything was owed them."

The court heard an extract from her letter which said: "I will wait for you tonight. It will be the most beautiful night of our lives."

Weeping, she rose and cried: "Enough! Enough!"

"I shot him," she said, "not only to vindicate my own name but to defend Italian women."

Hunt Death Row Fugitive in Ohio

CLEVELAND, April 4 (INS)—Northern Ohio authorities were on the outlook today for former Marine Pvt. Earl McFarland, 25, who escaped from death row in the District of Columbia jail in Washington yesterday.

McFarland was believed to have hitch-hiked to Cleveland yesterday from Jamestown, N. Y.

McFarland escaped with Joseph D. Medley, 44, convicted of the fatal shooting of Nancy Boyer, a Washington divorcee. Medley was retaken a few hours after the escape.

McFarland, a native of New Berne, N. C., faced the electric chair for the sex slaying of Dorothy Berrum, Chippewa Falls, Wis., a government worker.

The search for McFarland turned to Ohio when De Witt Whittaker, 20, of suburban Bedford, and his mother, Mrs. Robert Whittaker, identified a man whom they picked up yesterday as McFarland.

Streptomycin Flown to Boy

On authorization of Dr. Chester S. Keefer of Evans Memorial Hospital, a supply of the miracle drug streptomycin was rushed today from the Abbott Laboratories in Chicago in an effort to save the life of 3-year-old William Double, Jr., son of a Milwaukee assemblyman.

The boy, suffering from double pneumonia and complications, has not responded to treatment with Sulfa drugs and penicillin and has been growing steadily weaker, according to reports from the Wisconsin city.

Dr. Keefer granted the request for release of the drug after talking by telephone with Dr. F. E. Drue of Milwaukee and Col. Wallace Graham, President Truman's physician.

Watertown Hunts Truckmen in Theft

Arrest of five or six truck drivers was promised today by Watertown police after Dominic Nuovo, 51, of Elmwood ave., Watertown, was held in $5000 for hearing April 25 in Waltham court on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He pleaded not guilty.

Sgt. Francis A. Nally of Watertown, who has been working three months with FBI agents, said $3000 worth of merchandise, stolen while being shipped from Boston, had been recovered and identified.

Sullivan Tells Why He Barred Cabbie

Police Comr. Sullivan declared today a Chelsea Navy veteran, whose hackney license he had revoked last Monday, had "got off very lightly."

The veteran, Harold Goodman, Chester ave., Chelsea, had complained he was being harshly treated in being deprived of the license to operate a taxicab, which he obtained last December on the same day he was discharged after 23 months of overseas service.

"I saw him with my own eyes," declared the commissioner today. "He went through a red and yellow pedestrian light, after deliberately circling six cars which had stopped for the light, and narrowly missed striking two women pedestrians."

Sullivan said he gave chase from the scene at Arlington st. and Commonwealth ave. and overhauled the cab at Clarendon st.

"He admitted to me that he had gone through the light," Sullivan continued "There's been too much of that and it represents a hazard to the walking public. He got off very lightly. If there had been an officer with me I would have suggested putting him into court."

Goodman admitted he had committed a misdemeanor but said it was in making a turn into Commonwealth ave. after the green arrow light had changed.

$10,000 Asked In Shopping Fray

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4 (AP)—Mrs. Rebecca Benson, 60, filed suit for $10,000 in circuit court here today, charging she suffered two broken ribs when a crowd of women attempting to buy linen sheeting jammed her against a post in a department store.

Mrs. Benson said she was swept through the store's door by a throng of women last April 9.

She charges the store with negligence in handling the crowd.

Ex-Cipher Clerk Thief, Reds Say

OTTAWA, April 4 (AP)—The Soviet embassy charged today Igor Gouzenko, former embassy cipher clerk and now a star witness in current espionage cases, had stolen money from the embassy.

The embassy declared Gouzenko "is indictable for the committed crime in case of his return to Russia."

Meat Supplies In Hub Reach All-Time Low

Meat supplies in Boston, decreasing since last November, were at their lowest ebb today with stock on hand estimated to be only about 50 per cent of the amount which could be obtained at the height of wartime rationing.

Malcolm McCabe of the Retail Grocers and Provisions Dealers' Ass'n said the present shortage was the worst since before the war and estimated this area was shut off from 85 per cent of its normal beef supply from packers.

A seasonal drop in lamb supplies has accentuated the steady decrease in available beef while pork is virtually impossible to obtain in any market in the city. Poultry suppliers are also hard hit by the drain.

Most of the big packing houses are unable to supply their customers because they say ceilings on the prices they may pay cattle growers make it impossible for them to slaughter and process meat without taking a loss.

Most of the meat now available to Boston markets comes from local jobbers, only a short time in business and able to pay more for live cattle than the ceiling prices set for the big packing houses.

Such jobbers purchase live cattle from the growers and bring it here for slaughtering, selling the meat for the most part to hotels and restaurants and a few markets.

The same situation was reported in New York where more slaughtering is being done than at any previous time. In the past that city depended for the most part on supplies from large packing houses.

The result is that small independent markets and even the large chains, which have depended on packing houses for their regular meat supplies, are displaying empty counters.

Middlesex U. Plans Told Legislators

A two-million dollar endowment is being sought by a Jewish group in its attempt to reorganize Middlesex University and eventually reopen its school of medicine, Dr. Israel Goldstein of New York, president of the newly elected board of trustees, told the legislative committee on education at a hearing today.

He appeared in opposition to bills filed by Senator Edward M. Rowe to revoke certain provisions of Middlesex University's charter.

MRS. EMMA CUMMINGS, 26
Says Sailors Attacked Her
INP by Lester MacLellan

3 Held in Attacks On Two Women

Two U. S. sailors, Cornelius O'Meara, 19, New York city, and John Frazier, 18, Florida, pleaded not guilty in Roxbury court today to a charge of criminally attacking Mrs. Emma Cummings, 26, Bower st., Roxbury, after a tour of Scollay sq.

The victim, mother of three children, told police she had gone home by taxi with the sailors, alighting a block from her home. She said during the block walk, they pulled her into an alley and attacked her before her husband —attracted by her screams—came running from their home.

Judge Eisenstadt continued the case until April 9 and set bail at $5000 for each defendant.

Three Men in Court For Attacking Women

Three men were held in $2500 each in municipal court today. Their cases were continued after they pleaded not guilty to attempted criminal assaults involving two Boston women.

Thomas Rooney, 28, a Fall River father, who allegedly knocked down Miss Edith Chase, 34, Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, a school teacher, will be given a hearing tomorrow. Police told Judge Riley the woman's screams caused Rooney to flee from the scene, in Spruce st., but he was overtaken and captured by a soldier, Robert Haskell, 18, Baker ave., Beverly.

Judge Riley continued to April 12 the cases of Samuel Douglas, 39, Edgerly pl., Roxbury, and Reuben Tucker, 27, a Negro, Brookline st., South End.

They were arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Doris Pollia, 40, Newland st., South End, a waitress, who charged they dragged her 50 feet, from Newland into Fabian st., before her screams brought help, early in the morning of April 6.

Out-Flagged

TOKYO, April 4 (AP)—A long-time resident of Tokyo asked a Japanese woman today why so few Japanese flags were flown to commemorate the death of Nippon's mythical first emperor, Jimmu.

"It is very simple," she replied. "Most of our flags have been traded to the American soldiers for cigarets."

State Gas Tax Boost Opposed

Opposition was registered today before the legislative taxation committee on three bills seeking increaen in the present State gasoline tax, now set at two cents plus a one-cent "temporary" tax which has been effective 14 years.

One bill favored making the present "temporary" tax permanent, while the others favored increase to four cents.

Opponents declared any increase would be an additional imposition on already burdened highway users, and was unnecessary.

Among those recorded in opposition were the Massachusetts Highway Users' Conference; the State Grange; the Massachusetts Petroleum Industries Committee, automobile and truck associations.

Push Hunt for 2 Gloucester Boys

GLOUCESTER, April 4—Two Gloucester boys who set out to see the world well equipped with cash were sought from Boston to Texas today. They vanished Saturday after mailing home cards from Boston, declaring, "We're off from here."

Jos. Frontiera J. Meade, Jr.

They are John Meade, Jr., 13, Madison ave., and Wilfr Frontiera, 14, son of Joseph Frontiera of Washington st., a local grocer. Questioning of playmates after parents reported the boys missing disclosed they "might go to Texas," or "somewhere else." Each boy had at least $25, relatives told police.

Hope Abandoned for 50 Tidal Wave Child Victims

HILO, Hawaii, April 4 (AP)—Hope has been abandoned for 50 school children missing since Monday's tidal wave swept them to sea, Police Chief Anthony Paul said today.

"We expect to find them when the ocean gives up its dead," he said.

Of the 88 known dead in the Hawaiian Islands, 25 were children, and of the 69 still missing 50 were youngsters.

Boys and girls rushed to beaches when the ocean receded just before the first of the waves struck. Many were engulfed.

"I was working on the road with four others when it happened," said Henry Simmons of North Hilo.

"I looked down the road and saw the children running toward the ocean."

Simmons stopped a car and a bus and asked the drivers to help get the children to safety.

"Then the third wave—the biggest—came in," he said. "It seemed like the whole ocean had risen.

"The children ran and some of them got away, but those in back were caught. I saw them bobbing in the water and ran down to help."

Tree-Going Fish

HONOLULU, April 4 (AP) —The tidal waves which battered Hawaii left havoc and debris behind—but many coast residents didn't have to wonder where their next meal was coming from.

The sea cast ashore thousands of fish, and some Hawaiians picked their wriggling dinner from coconut trees.

N. E. Jobless Seen 300,000

Job counseling for veterans who represent one-third of the nation's working force is the most important task confronting labor today and unless it is done honestly and competently, America will face chaos for years to come.

Louis L. Levine, chief of reports and analysis for the U. S. Employment Service in Washington, told this to 250 managers and other USES personnel at opening of a two-day regional conference at Hotel Bradford today.

Earlier, Arthur C. Gernes, New England USES director, said unemployment would reach 300,000 in New England this week.

Keitel Reveals Big Hitler Bluff

NUERNBERG, April 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel testified before the International Military Tribunal today that only 20 divisions, including reserves, guarded Western Germany during the Polish blitzkrieg and "a French attack would have met with no German defense."

"We, as soldiers, were very much surprised that nothing took place except skirmishes between the Maginot Line and the West Wall," he said.

Keitel, on the stand in his own defense, said both Allied and Axis secrets leaked out "through the close connections of the Belgian and Italian royal houses." This he said was a factor in Hitler's planning.

Hub Rescue Ship Radios for Aid

While taking the New Bedford fishing dragger St. Ann in tow about 20 miles east of Pollock Rip lightship today, the Coast Guard cutter Harriet Lane's starboard engine was fouled when a line snapped and wrapped itself around the cutter's propeller.

The Lane radioed for help and the cutter Phlox was dispatched from Woods Hole to take the 72-foot dragger in tow.

32 E. Boston Dogs Nabbed In Annual Spring Roundup

Animal Rescue League agents combed East Boston today for stray dogs, picking up 32, of which 14 were restored to owners after they were found to be licensed.

Archibald MacDonald, incharge of the group, said the remaining 18 dogs would be taken to League quarters and held six days for owners to obtain licenses and claim them. After that time, he said, they would be disposed of to other homes or done away with if in poor health.

He said the roundup was made at request of Capt. William Britt of the East Boston station, who complained that the large number of stray dogs in the section was a health menace.

The roundup was made during school hours, when youthful owners were attending classes. One boy, fearing his dog had been picked up, visited the police station immediately, paid a license fee and headed for the League to recover his pet.

Red Arctic Air Route Disclosed

LONDON, April 4 (INS)—A Reuters dispatch from Moscow today reported disclosure of a hitherto secret Arctic air route stretching 3000 miles across Siberia to the Far North shores of the Bering straits, the nearest Soviet Union point to Alaska.

Reuters said the route from Krasnoyarsk to Yakutsk was established during the war at personal orders of Stalin.

NEW DISCOVERY REDUCES HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE!

TIME MAGAZINE (March 11, 1946) tells about the effectiveness of using negative ions in reducing high blood pressure as discovered and used by the Germans prior to the war. Leading scientists of the world have confirmed this discovery and endorsed the treatment.

Conveniently located right here in Boston is a negative ion treatment that is available to bring relief to those who suffer from high blood pressure.

During the twelve years we have been treating patients, the average systolic pressure reduction has been 45 points . . . the average diastolic pressure reduction has been 21 points!

Treatments are pleasantly relaxing and given under a doctor's direction. They may be taken at home if desired and normal routine of existence may be continued.

Call or write at once for free folder telling in detail about this successful treatment to reduce high blood pressure.

Q—Does the wife or child of a soldier receive free surgery and hospitalization? M. S., Lawrence.

A—The Army provides surgery and hospitalization of soldiers' dependents when available. Also the Red Cross has a broad program of emergency assistance available to dependents of servicemen. Advise you to consult local Red Cross chapter in Lawrence.

Q—Are members of the WAAC who accepted honorable discharges when that corps became the WAC and component part of the Army entitled to the Mass. State bonus? J. S.

A—No, they are not.

Q—I would like to find out the progress a member of the Marine Corps, now a prisoner at Portsmouth Navy Yard, is making during his confinement. The prisoner is a relative of mine and his parents live in the Mid-West? J. R., Providence, R. I.

A—My advice would be to contact the prison chaplain either by personal visit or writing. Personally it would be better if you visited the prison and talked with official there.

Q—My husband was sent to a rehabilitation camp by Army officials and my allotments were stopped. Now he has been discharged, according to a friend of his who was in his outfit. Am I entitled to my allotment from the time he was sent away until discharged? A. S., Malden.

A—Apparently the court-martial sentence ordered allotment payments stopped, therefore you will not receive that benefit.

Q—My husband is a S-Sgt. and now on a 90-day occupational furlough from Cushing General Hospital where he has been confined for the past year due to wounds received in France. We are expecting a baby this month. Am I entitled to government supported maternity aid and care? M. C., Brockton.

A—Due to the rank your husband holds you are not eligible for above benefit. Must be within the first four ranks. In other words, sergeant or under.

Q—Is the mother of two sons, one of whom was killed in action and the other now serving in the Pacific, eligible to request the discharge of the latter because he is her only surviving child? J. H. M., Roxbury.

A—Regulations state that parents of two or more sons killed in action may request the discharge of a surviving son. However, if son is needed at home may apply for his discharge on grounds of dependency.

Prepare Garden Plot Now But Don't Start Planting Yet

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School

It is now time for most Greater Boston gardeners to prepare their plots, but planting should not be started for a few days yet. The recent rain and snow cooled the soil, so there is no advantage in planting seeds until we have a few warm days.

As most New England soils are acid, it is necessary to apply lime. Gardeners must be careful not to overlime as this can cause serious trouble. If you are breaking in new land, and no lime has been added, it is safe to put on a light application before planting. On the other hand, if you limed the land last year, I would suggest that you have your soil tested before adding lime. If soils have not been limed, apply 25-30 lbs. of limestone per 1000 sq. ft. after plowing or spading. Then rake it in. Lime applied on the surface does not do much good until the following year.

If garden is located on high, sandy soil and has a southern exposure, you can start preparing the land now. Do not attempt to work heavy, wet soil until it dries out unless you want to be in trouble all season.

Animal manures will give better results if spaded in. The addition of superphosphate at the rate of 30 pounds per 1000 sq. ft. will balance up the manure.

HOME GARDEN FORUM

Q—How many tomato plants should I order for a family of five?

A—One dozen tomato plants of the better varieties per person should supply enough for both fresh use and canning.

Q—Last year I had some bean seed left over. Is it safe to use it this year?

A—Yes. If this seed was stored in a cool dry place, it should germinate well.

Q—Earlier we started to grow some Sweet Spanish onions from seed indoors. The tops are now about 4 inches high and tip over. What is wrong?

A—If the tops are green, there is nothing wrong. Young onion seedlings always tip over. Keep the temperature low and put out in the open as soon as the temperature goes above 45. Onions need field sunlight.

Q—Is chemical fertilizer better than animal manure for the vegetable garden?

A—Both have value in successful gardening. A good gardener should use both.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Vincent Club Show Is Peppy

THE VINCENT CLUB'S first postwar musical opened a four-day run at N. E. Mutual Hall last night to benefit Vincent Memorial Hospital. The large cast comprises talented daughters of our first families who achieve a most entertaining and professional show with their peppy and tuneful song and dance routines and beautiful costumes.

The theme is a trip around the world with costumes, music and dances representing various glamor spots on the way. Outstanding hits include Peggy Stuart who plays a concerto in the first act and later shifts to a lighter mood with her personality-plus rendition of "Jenny"; Julia Barbour who once again stops the show with her singing, Lillian Warren, a pretty blonde with a well trained soprano, Diana Beebe, Priscilla Stuart, Mrs. Kenneth Howes Jr., and Mrs. W. J. MacDonald Jr.

Incidentally Julia went into the show at the last minute and her friends who thought she might not remember all the lyrics to "I Wanna Get Married" wrote the words around the edge of the lace paper frill on the bridal bouquet she carried for the scene.

The tallest and prettiest were picked for the famous precision marching in the Vincent Drill which this year has a South American theme with vivid blue, gold and white military costumes. In the '46 Drill are Margaret Amory, Mary Bartlett, Elinor Bliss, Abigail Cutler, Sabra Harwood, Patricia Hobbs, Mrs. Kenneth Howes Jr., Hope Ellen Noyes, Mrs. Wm. B. Rogers 3d, Marjorie Soule, Margaret Thayer, Anne Trowbridge, Pamela Whitney, Sylvia Winsor and Dorothy Rackemann who pinch-hits for Molly Rudd.

The audience was the most light hearted in years. Champagne corks popped, lavish furs topped sumptuous evening gowns and many fathers, brothers and beaux were home from the wars to applaud their particular stars. Up from the North Shore were the Freddie Dearborns, Tom Wigglesworths, Mrs. Bayard Warren and Kay Winthrop. Mrs. Charles Pettit was with her debutante daughter Meredith, in black net sparkling with gold sequins. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Griswold with sub-deb Angela; Mrs. Frederick B. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant, Mrs. F. Cobb Chilton, Mrs. Robert Stange in a lovely royal blue gown printed with white stars, each with a rhinestone center; Mrs. Hamilton Osgood in violet blue with pink camellias; Mrs. Thomas Lanman, the William D. Orcutts, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carney with the John Moseley Abbots.

Finding the basal metabolic rate with the aid of a calorimeter. This helps to determine whether the thyroid is functioning properly.

The story of the thermostat you carry in your throat

At the base of your throat, astraddle of your windpipe, lies a gland whose importance is out of all proportion to its size.

This small organ, generally weighing less than an ounce, acts as a sort of thermostat or governor for your body, determining how much heat and energy you produce. The thyroid can make a person rush around like a comet, and, like a comet, eventually burn out. Or it can make him as habitually sluggish as a snail.

You'll find why this is so in an article in the April issue of Good Housekeeping. The same issue also has a feature called "Keep Up With Medicine" which, this month, tells you why it is usually wise to stick to pasteurized milk.

The "Keep Up With Medicine" feature and a major article on medicine appear in Good Housekeeping every month. Together, they provide the most outstanding source of medical information offered to the lay public by any large magazine.

Good Housekeeping devotes this unusual amount of effort to presenting medical information because women want it. A good many husbands might be surprised to learn that their wives read the medical articles every bit as eagerly as they do the fashion news.

As doctors will tell you, it's not easy to write about medicine for the layman. If you are to be really helpful, you must avoid sensationalism. You must not arouse false hopes. You must be factual, accurate, informative.

That Good Housekeeping has succeeded in this is shown by the fact that we have never had a complaint from the medical profession.

It has been said, "When you educate a man, you educate an individual; when you educate a woman, you educate a whole family." If this is true, it would be difficult to find a source which has contributed more to the sound medical education of the American family than Good Housekeeping.

The April issue is on the newsstands now.

GET FACTS

BOSTON'S drop to eighth place among the ports of the nation in foreign trade has been caused by a lack of regularly scheduled steamship service.

That is the opinion of Frank J. Wall, New Haven vice-president, who spoke recently at a legislative hearing.

But former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, veteran member of the Port Authority, objects strenuously to the diagnosis.

The decline of Boston as a shipping center, says Mr. Fitzgerald, is the result of a ruinous domination of the railroads serving the port by outside interests.

Now it is the duty of the Legislature to determine which critic is right.

Boston harbor is the source and sustenance of Massachusetts prosperity, as every citizen knows.

When the harbor becomes a maritime no-man's land, all the people in the State suffer, because the business and employment which belong to them go elsewhere.

During the war years, troops from eighteen States and materials from twice that many moved through Boston.

Why, unless there is inefficiency or discrimination somewhere, should peace mean the virtual abandonment of such a provenly important port?

MERITED RAISE

IN WASHINGTON, the House of Representatives has passed by a 368-to-1 roll-call vote a bill giving most postal employes a wage boost of $400 annually.

This is not much of a pay increase, and it will not raise the living standards of postal workers and their families to the levels long enjoyed by persons in many other fields of public and private enterprise.

Nevertheless, if the Senate follows the good example of the House, it will be a most WELCOME increase and one having every justification in the light of national interest and responsibility.

The Hearst newspapers have been pleading the cause of the postal workers for more than 20 years.

In every session of Congress throughout that time, bills providing for pay increases have been introduced, and on many occasions have been passed by one or the other of the two houses—but, with the exception of last year, never by both.

REAL HELP

PROMPT PASSAGE of legislation permitting the State and the various cities and towns to sell house lots to war veterans for one dollar a lot has been predicted on Beacon Hill.

For more than a year this newspaper has advocated this kind of practical rehabilitation.

It is the only way to enable a serviceman to enjoy the full benefits of his GI loan.

Having received a gift of land, the serviceman may use all the money he borrows for construction.

There are thousands of acres of currently useless land in the rural areas which can be made available to the veterans for small farms, and unless we miss our guess, the men will prefer this land to housing developments in congested cities.

GOOD ADVICE

ARCHBISHOP CUSHING believes women should seek and hold public office.

Speaking at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross a few days ago, the distinguished prelate said:

"Too long have women remained in the background.

"Too long have they kept their gifts locked within their hearts.

"Master yourselves before you try to master others, and having mastered yourselves, enter politics and public office and aspire and enrich them."

Certainly, a mother who loves her family and cherishes Christian home life will never be found in the company of Communists whose aim is the destruction of the family and home.

This was the day that you were born,
So sweet it shall always be;
This was the day you started

The road that led to me.
Yes, this is your birthday, darling,
But I was born the day we met,
And for all eternal time to come,
These two are the days I never shall forget.

—MEDA CASEY.

ABOVE was written in honor of the author's husband on his 28th birthday . . . What was the first piece you recited at school? When seven years of age, I nervously stepped upon the platform of the public school on East 120th st. near Pleasant ave. in New York city and gave voice, in trembling tones, to my first recitation which was as follows:

If wisdom's ways you wisely seek,
Five things observe with care:
Of whom you speak,
To whom you speak,
And how, and when and where.

VEGETARIANS: Adam was a vegetarian. Also Aristotle, Ovid, Plutarch and Diogenes. Other great men who abstained from meat eating were Michel Montaigne, John Evelyn, Alexander Pope, Rosseau, Wagner and Thoreau. So claims the editor of the "American Vegetarian." That's quite an array of vegetable enthusiasts. I wonder how many of them liked succotash. Still, I believe some of the men mentioned were not adverse to consuming a bit of meat now and then. I will, however, check their biographies and autobiographies before popping off definitely as to this and losing more stogies than I can afford.

BUSY DUCK: A Californian says he has a duck which has laid 475 eggs in as many days. "Can Brooklyn top that?" he asks. Well, I don't know about Brooklyn. But perhaps Long Island can. Some of those Long Island ducks are very clever.

SOMETHING NEW: A Beverley Hills, Cal., resident states that some of that city's celebrated hairdressers are using beer as a rinse, instead of lemon or vinegar. The results, says she, produce hair almost as lovely as Lana Turner's. Very interesting. If this practice becomes general it should be good for the beer business.

Lana Turner

Where can I buy some brewery stock?

PASSING BY: Ann Curtis. Swimming champion. A co-ed at the University of California. Is a beautiful girl. Maybe she ought to be in pictures. Remember when that great swimmer of the yesteryear, Annette Kellerman, was starred in the film "Neptune's Daughter"?

Ann Curtis

HORSES AND WOMEN: "Suffer women once to arrive at an equality with you and they will from that moment become your superiors," said Cato. "You should make a woman angry if you wish her to love," observed Publius Syrus. "A woman talks to one man, looks at a second and thinks of a third," said Bhartrihari. Observed Moliere: "A woman is like ivy, which grows beautifully so long as it twines around a tree, but is of no use when it is separated." Said Burton: "It is hard to forget a woman with whom one has been happy."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What kind of secretaries do Aquarius (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) women make? Are women under this sign inclined to be shy? A—Aquarians do all right as secretaries, but are never very happy when so engaged. Having creative minds, they seek an activity in which they can capitalize on their own ideas.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A desperate nylon hosiery hunter says in one place she was told if she purchased a suit, coat, dress or furs she would be eligible to buy one pair of nylons . . . Carrot and spinach ice cream is now available. My informant says: "It's delicious." Maybe it is, but I'll still take vanilla . . . Add members of Triple Header Name Club: Solomon Solomon Solomon, Denver, Col. . . . Observed Tallyrand: "Never speak ill of yourself, your friends will always say enough on that subject."

SMALL TOWN GIRL: "I am a small town girl. And I like it," writes a Californian. "I am 33 years old, 5 feet 3 inches in height, weigh 100 pounds and have reddish-brown hair. Last year my dress shop netted me $19,000. Besides, I made around $6000 in real estate. My husband has just returned from 29 months in Burma. He read your column all that time. I mailed it to him."

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

SIDNEY HILLMAN, CIO satrap, is raising, not by voluntary contribution, $6,000,000 to win the forthcoming Congressional elections.

Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Communists, Masons, Odd-Fellows, Catholics, Protestants and Jews, Northerners, Southerners, and just plain unaffiliated Americans will be forced to contribute to Sidney Hillman's political funds, even if they hate the thing they have to support.

Sidney Hillman

They used to criticize Mark Hanna for levying on businessmen, but Mark Hanna never had the gall of Sidney Hillman.

There is no refusing Sidney. His unions levy and, if the American refuses to pay, he ceases to be in good-standing in his union and may not, in closed shops, continue to earn a living at his trade.

In those industries in which a check-off obtains, capitalistic and Republican employers must collect the levy, providing the CIO with the funds to destroy capitalism and to overthrow the two-party system in America.

MUCH OF this money is to be spent in the South fomenting a racial war designed to develop such bitter hatreds in those States that the turmoil will prove beneficial to the extreme left-wingers who cannot operate in any country where the people are at peace.

No one claims that the white-Negro situation anywhere in this country is sound, but no true American can accept turmoil, tumult and stimulated hatred as a solution.

This campaign of the CIO should be watched vigilantly by Americans, for this year, for the first time, a Communistic bloc actually exists and operates in the House of Representatives and certain Democrats in the Senate coalesce to do the work of the left-wingers.

If Americans favor the Communist party, they should vote for it, but it is a devious trick for Communists and their allies to invade the Republican and Democratic parties with the object of doing their foul business for a foreign power in the disguise of Americans.

IN NEW YORK STATE, Robert Hannegan is apparently bargaining with Sidney Hillman for a continued coalition of forces.

They would nominate Senator Mead as the joint candidate of the Democrats and the left-wingers for Governor.

They want Eleanor Roosevelt nominated for the Senate, Sam Rosenman for a high judicial post and they are to combine on Congressmen.

Whoever, in New York State, accepts an American Labor Party endorsement is a Communistic candidate and decent, patriotic Americans will oppose him whoever he may be.

During the war years, the Commies and radicals confused New Yorkers, who are readily fooled because they like to be, by disguising themselves as patriots.

Now that the Commies and radicals are again the tools of a foreign power, no one can associate with them without risking the consequences of improper association.

If Americans will watch how the Communistic forces operate in all countries, they will note that they always put forward non-Communists to stomp the ground for them.

If they cannot find a trick, they try to boycott the elections as they did in Greece.

When they discover that the people are on to them, they get the Russians to call off the elections as they did in the Russian sector of Germany.

In France, where some decent democratic elements joined them, they kicked their allies out.

The Democratic Party is doing the United States a disservice by permitting itself to be the stalking horse for the Communists and radicals through its alliance with the CIO, the PAC and the American Labor Party. It is also wrecking itself, for ultimately the American people will vote down the Democratic Party as a transmission belt for the Communists.

The slogan ought not to be "clear it with Sidney!" It ought to be, "WATCH OUT FOR SIDNEY!"

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 4—My first reaction to the news Anatole Litvak had bought "The Snake Pit" and would produce it, for Charlie Einfield and David Loew, was how in the world they would make a movie from this shocking and pitiful expose of conditions in a state mental hospital?

Arleen Whelan

Mary Jane Ward's novel tears your heart out with pity for these men and women who live in a world of shadows and who treasure, like rare jewels, their few flashes of sanity.

But remember that most people felt the same way about "The Lost Weekend." Of course, after it swept the Academy Awards many of them are saying they knew it all the time. I do feel that if "The Snake Pit" is handled with force and great care—which Litvak is sure to give it—it may well bring about a reform in many institutions where reform is sorely needed—just as Dickens' "Oliver Twist" turned the spotlight of public indignation on English orphanages.

ONE OF the very prettiest girls at "The Cads" party last Saturday night was red-haired Arleen Whelan, who was with her husband, Hugh Owen, who had that very day flown in to escort her. Of course, I mean the now historic affair given by James Stewart, Cary Grant, John McLain and Eddy Duchin. Looks as if Hugh who is sales manager for Paramount, will have to do a lot of commuting to Hollywood by air, because Arleen has just signed a handsome contract with Paramount. Her work in "Suddenly It's Spring" brought it about. Arleen, with her husband, returns to New York before she starts on the deal.

IF THEY HAD been giving Academy Awards back in the day: when the original "Humoresque" was made, Vera Gordon would have been a cinch for an Oscar for her wonderful portrayal of the Jewish mother. But she seemed to reach an impasse after that hit and except for a few unimportant roles, she dropped out of the movie limelight. Now Mrs. Gordon is staging a comeback in a part that should do as much for her as "Humoresque"—Mrs. Cohen in "Abie's Irish Rose" for Bing Crosby and Eddie Sutherland. It is just one of the little ironies of the movies that "Humoresque" is being remade at Warners and Mrs. Gordon wasn't even thought of.

I'M HAPPY to hear that Cary Grant and Alex Korda got together before Alex went skipping off to Bermuda to visit Lord Beaverbrook. It is the same idea that I printed a few weeks ago about Cary's taking pictures all over the globe in the capitals of the world. One thing that's misleading, and which Cary denies, is the story printed elsewhere that Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard have a part in his set up with Alex Korda. If they have another deal, that's something else again, but Cary says his arrangement is just with Korda and does not include Miss Oberon and Mr. Ballard.

IRENE RICH, one day in 1941, put her foot down and said she was through playing giddy, gay mothers on the screen. In fact, she was retiring after having spent years and years as an actress. Her radio show, "Dear John," about that time went off the air, and Irene retired to her 1000-acre farm to raise pigs, of all things. Well, Irene is temporarily back among us again to make a picture with John Wayne at Republic, "The Angel and the Outlaw," to be specific. She'll play a Quaker mother living in Arizona, in 1860, and, of course a character of dignity.

JAMES DUNN took three weeks to make up his mind about "That Brennan Girl." After carrying off the golden Oscar for the best supporting role, he didn't want to make any decision too lightly. Well, he and Mona Freeman are now all set for the picture which Al Santell is directing for Republic. Originally, "That Brennan Girl," by Adela Rogers St. John, belonged to M-G-M, which sold it to Herb Yates. Santell is just back at the studio after a tussle with flu.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Gossip is that R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate, has given his wife $5,000,000 for his freedom so he can marry Marianne O'Brien, former movie starlet; Van Johnson has put $35,000 on the line to buy his dad a house in Rhode Island; Mrs. Bernard Schubert obtains her divorce in Las Vegas today. He is the New York agent, and is now deep in radio. He's on his way to Hollywood; Mary and Dick Wallace celebrate 25 years of married life Saturday night with a dinner-dance for their friends at the Beverly Hills Hotel; Lily Ann Starr, one of the dancing girls in "Down to Earth," lost her purse with $85 and the rest of the girls chipped in and made up her losses, but not before Rita Hayworth offered to provide the money, and really wanted to do it.

JUST AS WE SAID six weeks ago, Claudette Colbert gets the lead opposite Gary Cooper in "State of the Union;" Harry Cushing IV, a well known New York socialite, and Sunny Skoda, munitions heiress, are keeping the New York gossip columns busy; Guy Madison and Gail Russell, after weeks of not seeing each other, a twosome at the Beverly Tropics; Paul Henreid, who came to fame lighting two cigarets for Bette Davis, now slaps her in the face twice in "Deception;" song plugger Mose Gumble is in town on his annual visit; the Hal Roaches are entertaining Gen. Carl Spaatz at dinner Monday night; from all the people telephoning about the Bob Hope party to be held Sunday, as a benefit for the children of Europe, I'd say that Dolores and Bob will have a full house. All the important stars are going to be there to aid in this worthy cause—Dorothy Lamour, Ann Sothern, Ray Milland—yep, Ray's back and Bob's got him! I'd be there myself if it wasn't for the radio. Hope they make a million for such a worthy cause.

WASHINGTON, April 4—I went over to watch the G.O.P. pick a new national chairman the other day and I wish to report that the Republicans are just as oratorical as the Democrats. So no matter which party wins in 1948 there is one commodity of which there will be no shortage and that is political helium.

Joe Martin

The G.O.P. national committeemen all came here with their minds made up as to whom they were for, but nevertheless they declined to get down to an immediate vote. They wished to talk first—and by golly they did.

I suppose this is only natural and not to be decried because what fun would there be in politics if you were under vows of silence? A guy would likely wind up with inhibitions and maybe physchoses if he was for a certain nominee and could not get up and describe his choice for 32 kilowatt hours as:

"This great American—a man who . . ."

I WOULD LIKE it thoroughly understood that I am not being critical of the Republicans because some of my best friends are Republicans—I am pretty sure.

They stand four-square behind whatever it is they are standing four-square behind and they are for good government and against all forms of extravagance, waste and bureaucratic inefficiency during a Democratic Administration.

The Republicans are shooting for a majority in the House next Congress and it looks as if they may get it. It seems a long time since the Republicans dominated anything around here except a few G. O. P. rallies and a change might be refreshing at that. But habit is a terrible thing and I will probably have to keep jogging myself to refrain from calling Joe Martin minority leader.

Some may get the impression that I am a mite unenthusiastic about the G. O. P., but that is not necessarily the case. The truth is that I have not met many Republicans in my daily round of government offices and they are more or less an unknown quality in my book.

We were informed at the meeting that there are many of them hidden away in places we don't suspect. A colored gentleman, for instance, got up and said: "If you find any member of my race saying he is a Democrat you may be sure he is really only a mad Republican!"

He used "mad" in the sense of "angry" or "incensed" as "may at the party," because the colored voters of the country have always been spiritually aligned with the party of Abraham Lincoln.

THE NOD for the national chairmanship finally went to Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee after a lot of fervent speechmaking on behalf of former Sen. John Danaher of Connecticut and John W. Hanes of New York.

The real speechmaking got under way after Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio withdrew himself as a candidate. Mr. Brown said he was for someone else and then, in the best tradition of political oratory, moved heaven and earth to keep from mentioning the name of his choice until the big punch line right at the very end.

This business of holding back the name of your man at political meetings has always fascinated me. The idea is to extoll some nameless party to the skies, proclaim that he is a household word, a man whom we all honor and trust, whose integrity is beyond compare, who will lead us to glorious victory at the next something or other—but never let drop a hint as to who he is.

It turned out at the end that Representative Brown was for Representative Reece, but his flood of oratory served to engulf the next speaker, who was Harrison Spangler, former national chairman. Mr. Spangler orated that he was "for a man who etc., etc., etc." And then—somewhere along the line—apparently forgot who he was for.

"I am for a man who will lead us on to victory—Mr. Brown!"

He had to be reminded that he was seconding the nomination of Representative Reece.

RAYMOND HAIGHT of California said the G. O. P. was "looking forward to 1940"—that's the year he said—and Bertha Baur, committeewoman from Illinois, rose to a point of order and requested the windows be opened to admit some air.

THE VILLA NOVA has joined the late spots, and service is being maintained until 3 a. m. . . . The musicians, especially, are taking advantage of the late-curfew . . . The former GI Bryce Santry, who weighs a solid 220 and has the agility of a cat, is becoming a favorite with Crawford House audiences who patronize that oasis chiefly because Sally Keith, a national byword with servicemen from all over the country, is still performing her remarkable routines in her unique and extraordinary way . . . Young Santry emcees the show, and sings . . . But he does flip-flops and double somersaults that are amazing in a man of his embonpoint. (Or in a man of any weight) . . . 'Henry V' Proves Screen Is Ideal for Shakespeare

By PEGGY DOYLE

If films of such quality as the Theater Guild-sponsored technicolor production, "Henry V," should become common, the Theater Guild might very well be forced to substitute Screen for Theater and Hollywood for Broadway. Which is to say that there is no finer theater anywhere than that which is to be found on the screen of the Esquire Theater, where producer-director-actor Laurence Olivier's "Henry V" was given its American premiere last night.

It has been said by my betters that Shakespeare was the greatest film director of our day and that "Henry V" is the world's first shooting script. A pre-premiere perusal of this definitely durable 347-year-old masterpiece proves the rightness of this point of view again and again.

Laurence Olivier

Remember Chorus, in the prologue, asking: "Can this cockpit hold the vasty fields of France?" This is only one of many instances in which the monumentally psychic Bard points up the confining restrictions of the stage.

Again the timelessness of his magical playwriting is underscored in Henry V's call to battle before Harfleur, which might have been made by Montgomery or Eisenhower or Patton in those heart-stopping crises before victory terminated World War II.

The camera has broken down the walls that stifled the grandeur that is Shakespeare.

The camera has given the First Playwright's genius its full wingspread in "Henry V" and enabled today's lucky schoolkids to love Shakespeare at first sight.

Olivier was persuaded to make the picture by the British Ministry of Information before the end of the war because of the morale-building quality of this medieval tale of Anglo-French conflict. Olivier's mixed English and French Huguenot lineage may have had something to do with his eagerness to produce, direct and enact the title role.

He delivers brilliantly in each department. His valor when single-handed he vanquishes Leo Genn's Constable of France is as inspiring as his forthright but tender wooing of the French Princess Katherine of Renee Asherson is touching.

Miss Asherson's Katherine is completely beguiling, notably when, handicapped by the sparseness of her English, she parries the bonny Henry's royal but rugged lovemaking.

A Mote Gets in the Way Of the Bromfield Talents

By PEGGY DOYLE

LOUIS BROMFIELD, who was telling an interviewer the other day that he would much rather be back on his Ohio farm than rewriting his and Laslo Vadnay's new play, "West of the Moon," was doubtless sincere.

After viewing "West of the Moon," which opened last night at the Wilbur, it is apparent that the gifted Mr. Bromfield's mind was not on his typewriting. It is equally clear that he allowed himself to be over-persuaded as to the entertainment values of the subject, California cults and cultists.

Mr. Vadnay, who was a Viennese playwright before he arrived in Hollywood to become a scenarist for a major studio 10 years ago, and the novelist-farmer-playwright discussed this possibly most thriving West Coast racket during the latter's California visit. They decided it was material for a play, it is reported

From us to you, "West of the Moon" is rather depressing tripe. Estelle Winwood is presented as a newly widowed stalker after cults. Donald Cook, erstwhile capable and likable leading man to Tallulah Bankhead's "Foolish Notion," personates a charming promotor of golf course-equipped ranches in heaven for the athletically inclined dead. Attractive Anne Burr, whose nurse in "The

Tonight's Opening

"Tannhaeuser," Richard Wagner's opera about the thirteenth century German minstrel with Torsten Ralf in the title role, Helen Traubel as Elisabeth and Blanche Thebom as Venus, opens the Boston season of Metropolitan Opera Company at the Opera House tonight. The engagement continues through April 13.

Hasty Heart" was one of the most satisfying things in that distinctly satisfying and tender war comedy, is hard put to make convincing a thoroughly incredible character.

If you think your play-reporter is going to go into details about this fundamentally distasteful and abysmally dismal play about the world's most tragic escapists, you can go twirl your radio-dial to the soap-operas until suds get in your eyes.

Brand-Slayer Suspect Dead

CHESTER, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Grant Tyler, 23-year-old veteran, was found dead, sprawled across a gas stove in the kitchen of his home last night by detectives ready to arrest him on charges of murdering Mrs. Rose Lyons Reynolds, 49-year-old housewife. Three gas jets were open.

Fatally beaten in a park, Mrs. Lyons had the letters "Y" and "W" crudely carved on her forehead, apparently with a penknife.

B. U., Two Hub High Schools List Oratory Test Finalists

As intramural trials in high schools and colleges closed today for entrants throughout the Boston area in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States," two more Boston high schools and Boston University announced their champions.

Today is the deadline for names of winners in all these elimination tests to be submitted to the Oratorical Contest Editor, Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

The winners are eligible to compete in the Boston finals in Faneuil Hall April 10, for which plans are now being completed.

At St. Patrick's High School in Roxbury the winner of the contest was chosen with the entire school participating in a patriotic program in the school auditorium. The champion is Valerie Edgar, a junior, of Myrtle st., West End.

East Boston High School also announced a girl as its intramural champion. She is Marie Olivieri of Gladstone st., East Boston.

Boston University's winner is Charles Chisholm, a junior, of Medford. He will be eligible, with all other high school and college winners of intramural contests, to compete in the Boston finals.

Sondheim Favors Longer Skirt

By Ruth Mugglebee

Beauty and Fashion Editor

THIS season there's enough style to go the feminine rounds . . . no pun intended. Fashion trends come and go with the change of temperature . . . but this spring, every figure gets a lucky break.

In the true sense . . . fashion is only what's smart for the girl who wears it . . . what gives interest to her presence and figure-presentation. And being fashion-wise, she passes up fads and fancies . . . exaggerations that are unbecoming and figure-discouraging . . . and sticks to clothes that "do something" for her walk, her talk and her manner.

If she can't wear the rounded silhouette . . . she wears a slim one and relies on skirt grace and sweep to carry out the new fashion note . . . or on suit jackets . . . short or tunic-length, as the case may be . . . that create an illusion of gracious femininity without actually bulking up the figure.

Herbert Sondheim is unalterably opposed to trumped-up trends. He remains firm in his conviction that the slim silhouette is the ideal one for the American figure . . . but makes it decidedly new this spring by slightly lengthening the skirts . . . squaring off the shoulders and all in all giving musical tone to fashion type . . . symphonic substance to sophisticated simplicity.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Patric)

THE SLIM silhouette with a slightly longer skirt and the square shoulders is my fashion blueprint, and this Spring I believe in it. It becomes the American figure and remains true to the expressed vitality of our country's womanhood.

Of particular importance and new this season is the definite skirt movement, achieved through the use either of a slight bustle back or panier draped fronts.

The tunic length jacket is also important when done in faille, prints or combination wools. It is a handsome companion for a fuller, but slim-appearing skirt. While suit jackets have no steadfast length definition this season, the longer jacket suit has a newer trend feeling and look.

I like the scarf accent this Spring, scarfs that can do as many tricks as a trained seal. Scarfs than can be throat-huggers or cowl-drape for necklines.

I believe the capelet dress, in either wool or crepe, will be much in evidence.

Herbert Sondheim

TYPICAL first spring suit for modern Red Riding Hood . . . is this bright-as-a-breeze red and navy wool suit by Herbert Sondheim . . . reflecting the great new look of more liberality in style effort. Here smart simplicity finds dramatic counterpart in color and soft lines. The red jacket . . . with upstanding neckline, sleeves cut in one with the shoulders, self-covered buttons . . . flows into a truly flaring navy skirt. And for the extra touch of fashion finesse . . . the pocket flaps for the jacket are duplicated in navy leather.

SCARFS for subtlety . . . and in this navy wool coat-dress by Sondheim . . . a classic for the willowy girl . . . the idea is ingeniously applied to focus attention at the waistline where fashion news is written this season. Hanging fabric folds from the cleverly scarf-tied waistline interpret the new fuller trend. White pique cuffs and vestee translate fashion's new call to point up navy with white.

34 Designers Dress You for Spring

ULTRA SMART for the insinuating lover of high style . . . is this nitty black faille suit . . . featuring the new longer jacket with flared tunic, flap pockets and self-covered buttons. Black faille is one of the strong Spring fabrics gracefully manipulated. Sondheim simplicity is defined in his slim silhouette with square shoulders and slightly longer skirt . . . and this hat-tipping costume is typical.

Thrifty, Tasty Long on Flavor

By MARTHA LEE

SERVE "SHORT CUTS" of meat—short cuts such as cross cut beef shanks, short ribs and ox-joints. They're thrifty and tasty, and may answer your what-to-have-for-dinner problems. Basically they all require the same cooking—a good browning, some liquid, and long, slow cooking. But even so, each one has variations that make it about the best meat dish you've tasted.

BARBECUED OX-JOINTS

1 oxtail
2 tbsp. fat
2 medium-sized onions, chopped
2 tbsp. vinegar
2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt
¾ cup catsup
1 tsp. chili powder
¾ cup water

Have oxtail cut in short lengths for ox-joints. Brown well on all sides in hot fat. Add remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and simmer 2 to 2½ hours, or until tender.

Phonograph Music O. K. for Weddings

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

At my simple home wedding next month I would so much like to have some music, but our only possible facility is our phonograph. Would it be proper to use this? C. R.

Do have some music at your house wedding, and it is entirely proper to have music via the phonograph. • All the masterpieces in wedding music are available on phonograph records. And you might ask some relative or friend to take charge of playing the records.

Facial Alerter Boon to Girls

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

GRANTED EVERY GIRL washes her face . . . the beauty question is HOW? Too many girls give their complexions a slap-dash, superficial creaming and call it cleansing. Trusting souls!

Then, after a repeated performance of this "step-child" facial care . . . when dullness, sallowness, and even a blemish or two sets in . . . they begin to wonder and immediately charge it up to the inefficiency of the cosmetic at hand.

Any dermatologist will tell you that no skin can retain its charm and vitality unless it is regularly and sytematically freed from clogging impurities. And for deep pore cleansing . . . for scrupulous washing out and flushing of those openings which all too often fill up with extraneous waste matter . . . we fancy the abrasive action of an unusual washing preparation . . . tiny granules that dissolve in warm water to be used daily if the skin is oily . . . every second of the day if the skin is normal . . . and once a week for dry skin.

Excess oil, grime and stale makeup are washed away instantly . . . pores are encouraged to normal functioning . . . and blackheads and whiteheads discouraged. Then and only then . . . when the complexion is alerted . . . can the face have that fresh, wideawake glow . . . that healthy, clean look of clear beauty.

For the name of this facial alerter, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Mother's Suggestion To Lonesome Teen-Agers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

REMEMBER "LONESOME?" She wrote a letter two or three weeks ago asking how she could get her mother to let her have some fun. She had to scrub, wash and iron and do all sorts of other chores at home, and was never allowed to attend high school dances or other events. Her father was willing for her to go, but her mother wasn't.

Well, several interested mothers who read her letter have written in with some suggestions. Here's what one says:

"Dear 'Lonesome':

"Believe me, I sympathize with you. Miss Fairfax suggested that you talk to Dad and get him to help Mother understand. I don't think so, because Mother might not understand.

"I'm a mother of grown children, and I went through the same problem. I did not win all I wanted, but I got half, anyway, so it's worth the try. Here's what I'd do, if I were you.

"I should get as calm as I could and make up my mind I was not going to shed any tears or get into an argument. Then I would take both mother and dad in a room and say: 'I know I'm young, but would you listen to my side of the story?' Then I would explain what I would like to do, saying: 'If you let me do these things, I would never destroy your faith and trust in me.' If your mother should say: 'I do trust you,' then say: 'Thank you, mums, and, since you do trust me, will you let me go one night to basketball, and one night a week with my friends?' Say frankly whether the friends you want to go out with are boys or girls, and if mother raises objections to boys, say: 'Mother, I'm promising you you can trust me.'

"If any mother refuses a request like this, when it's given with honesty, then I say such a mother is just plain selfish and cold-hearted, if she won't either agree to your proposal or suggest a substitute plan. Good luck to you and I hope you win, and I hope you keep your promise! S. A. Y."

OK to Name The Church

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In May, I am to be married in the chapel of the church to which I have always belonged, in which I am very active, and to which I am deeply devoted. At the ceremony will be only our two attendants and the members of the two families, and there is to be no reception. But I am planning to send formal announcements, and on these I would very much like to include the name of my church. I have never received an announcement on which this was done, I have been told that it was incorrect. Will you set me straight about this, please? KAY.

Indeed it is correct to give in the announcements the name of the church in which the ceremony was performed . . . and I hope that you do this. The name of the church comes after the date.

Fight Fans Revive Boom Time Contempt for Money

By AUSTEN LAKE

GET PLENTY OF CORNSILK and cotton wadding to stuff in your ears. Because you are apt to hear a goshamighty screech come from New York after the Louis-Conn fight on June 19.

Austen Lake

These agony yells will come from gullible ringside customers who are paying $100 for seats in lower Harlem on the false idea they are going to sit in the fighters' laps or at least with their chins resting on the ring apron. But "ringside" is just a figure of promotional speech. "Ringside" denotes the elastic area as far from the locus of action as there are patrons willing to pay $100. Thus the promoter is free to add new layers of "ringside" chairs as fast as he sells his tickets, extending the family circle until it crowds the outfield bleachers and steerage sections of the grandstand. From which distance the fight scaffold looks like a cupcake and the fighters like whiskers on a bum's chin.

They Won't Listen

I AM CONSCIOUS THAT I am shouting in a rainbarrel and that my warning won't deter a single fight filbert from laying down his yard of lettuce to see the big business. Warn a fight fan of an impending chump-trap and he'll trip the trigger to see how it works.

F'instance I recall with crystal clarity how, before the Louis-Baer mockery in the middle '30s I printed a public warning that the promoter had issued twin sets of "ringside" tickets, one set numbering the rows 1, 2, 3, etc., and the other lettering them A, B, C . . . Each set bore the legend "Ringside."

I advised the patrons not to shake hands with themselves if they owned tickets bearing "Row 1." Because instead of being close enough to catch bottle samples of the bloodshed they would find themselves just 27 rows back of the large press section, or behind the last letter of the alphabet, which is Z, standing for zany.

Yes, I gave my readers advance notice of this very naked cheat which was willfully devised by the sponsor on the theory that the dumb public would not suspect its calamity until it had squeezed through the sheep runs and into the vast prairie labeled "ringside." By which time the promoter would have trucked away the admission money to the bank and left the patrons to bay their woe at the moon.

The best the fight patrons get is the worst of it and the history of the industry is filled with such little frauds, skillfully kept just inside the twilight zone between outright swindle and lawful fake. For the promoters who specialize in heavyweight championships trade on the public's short memory and swift forgiveness as soon as fresh sucker bait is offered. They do not regard the fight patron as very bright, and past experience would indicate they have some justification for this premise.

Anyway, my warning did not restrain any customers from storming the Louis-Baer boxoffice and finding, for the most part, their carcasses parked a full hog shout from the ring. The ringside price was relatively small then, at $25 the squat, but the gross take amounted to some $900,000. For your heavyweight fight pecan is the most inherent sucker known to sport, if you will permit such crass cynicism.

Mike Learned from Tex

I HAVE NEVER SEEN A seating plan for any heavyweight championship and I doubt that such exists except privately in the safe of the 20th Century Club, which holds a monopoly on all Louis operations. There is a reason for this! It enables the propriator to skim the choicest locations out of the deck for circulation among Broadway's ticket speculators at fancier than standard prices. Which is why unlimited quanties of the better pasteboards turn up at the bootleg stores and with the curbstone vendors.

THE FIGHT BOSS OF THE 20th Century Club is Mike Jacobs, who learned his art under the able tutelage of the late Tex Rickard, an unconscionable old wizard who always scalped his own shows by slipping bundles of his best tickets to characters who kicked back a slice of the extra profits.

Tex was the fight czar in the old Madison Square Garden era of sellouts and always earmarked thousands of ringside seats for his personal account, explaining to the federal tax sleuths that these served the excessive demand of political moochers, influential friends and the greedy needs of the press.

Among my favorite memories is a tale told by Bill Carey, who stepped into control of the Garden Corp. when Tex suddenly died. Bill said he was sitting in his office one day when a furtive character with a mouthful of barrail brass and a habitual expression of smelling something sour entered. The character, said Bill, slapped down a bundle of Treasury notes. He just flipped 'em down, said Bill, and though there must have been many thousands in the bundle, he turned silently toward the door.

Carey thumbed the mysterious wad and asked, "But why are you being so kind to me?"

Bill said the stranger turned from his natural sallow yellow to a slow ashy gray as he realized that Rickard had left no written record of his ticket-scalping traffic and that he (the stranger) has just paid a large sum on a debt that existed only as a moral obligation in a dead man's brain. He seemed about to burst into tears over such a wicked waste but suddenly demanded, "You're gonna work as usual, ainchu?"

It was Rickard's share of his underground ticket disposal system by which he had inflated his income and which was the forerunner of the modern black market. But being natively honest and therefore a failure in the promotion industry Carey soon resigned back to his engineering business.

Since 1941 there has been very little to scalp in the fight business and opportunity to practice the gentle art of chiseling people with acres of seats misleadingly labeled "Ringside." The fight promoters haven't looked on a dollar for a long time and so perhaps are pardonably hysterical in the face of fresh funds. Thus by charging $100 for seats in the suburbs, they know if it skins the citizens they can readily grow other skins with small discomfort. But the citizen's pain is nothing like the agony of the promoters if they are forced to give the sucker an even break and thereby amputate their own most sensitive portions, the region of cash profits. Not that!

Ruth for Mex Jumpers; Flays U.S. Spring Grind

(Special to Boston Evening American)

NEW YORK, April 4—Babe Ruth is all for the players hopping to Mexico if it means increased pay checks. "A baseball career is a short one and a fellow would have to be a sucker to pass up a chance to better himself," said Babe today. "America doesn't own the game. It belongs to the world."

Moreover he thinks it is to the interest of this country to have Mexico, and other nations, boost the sport, show it at its best, with big leaguers cavorting on the diamond.

"I don't know what their objective is, but if they're using it only as an advertisement for their country, getting the Mexican kids to like and play baseball, that's enough for me," exclaimed the idol of every kid in the U. S., past and present.

"Those youngsters, too, should know about a game as great as baseball, how it really should be played."

"Unfortunately I don't think that Mexican league can stand up very long," he continued while leaning back in an easy chair in his Riverside Drive apartment. "The high prices they're paying for American players seem impossible. The league must flop. Mexico hasn't enough fans nor ball parks large enough to take in that kind of dough. Why, even a New York club couldn't afford such guarantees and wages.

"But you still can't blame a fellow like Mickey Owen for quitting Brooklyn, providing those Mexican offers are bona fide. Owen owes nothing to the majors. If he remained in Brooklyn and had a bad year, or had his value lessened by breaking a leg while trying to stop a runner at the plate or some other injury, the next season the owners would tell him they're sorry and ship him off to the minors.

"In organized ball, the general rule is a one-year contract with a ten-day clause. As soon as they think you're through, they tell it to you—and you're through! Mexico is handing out three-year contracts. So if a player has one off year, he still gets another chance."

"Now, mind you, I hold no brief against any of the big league owners," the Babe cautioned. "I did all right by them, and they did all right by me. I'm set for life. But baseball is a cold-blooded business. The owners are in the game for profit, and rightly so. But at the same time the player is in there for profit, too, and must protect himself.

"I once had a chance to jump the majors myself. Back in 1914, when I was with Baltimore, the Federal League offered me $10,000 to sign and $10,000 a season. That was tremendous money then and I was sorely tempted.

"The fact that I had a contract with Jack Dunn, then manager of Baltimore, made no difference. I turned the bid down only because of the threat I would be banned for life. What if the Federal League failed? I couldn't stand the thought of never being permitted to play again.

"Well, the Federal League did crack up, and what did the American and National do? They welcomed everybody back. Jack Quinn, who quit the American League to pitch in the Federals for five times his previous salary, returned to his old club without even a mean word directed at him. I have an idea the same thing would happen now.

"Another thing, those exhibition games today are cutting short the careers of all the players. In my day, you had 20-year ballplayers, Cobb, Wagner, myself and others. But now, if they last 12 seasons they'll be doing better than I expect.

"Look at the Yankees, playing 47 exhibition games before the season starts. Why, in June, they'll be all petered out. Can you blame these fellows for grabbing all the money they can in a hurry?

"The most exhibitions I ever remember playing was 27. And that was late in my career. It wasn't until 1918 that I played as much as one exhibition. Ed Barrow started it when I was with the Red Sox and the number increased as we went along.

"The owners tell you when the baseball year starts. They can make it Feb. 1 if they want, as long as you're playing for them. But if a ballplayer gets a chance to make some money on his own at the end of the league season, he's permitted two weeks of barnstorming, and that's all. They tell him it's harmful to his career, that he has had enough baseball for one summer. Oouch!

"And how do you like that new twist of first and second teams taking separate spring exhibition tours? Instead of having the entire squad travel together so that a player can get a rest after a couple of innings, now he must play the full game. The subs are in action elsewhere.

"I stand for the ballplayer, always did, and if he can get more money in Mexico, good luck to him.

"Incidentally," he said as a parting shot, "if those Mexicans make me a good offer, rest assured I'll consider it."

Life-Ban?

MIAMI, April 4 (AP)—Clark Griffith, who led organized baseball's successful fight against the outlaw Federal League, is ready to fight the Mexican League by barring for life all players who jump south of the border.

The owner of the Senators said in an interview that he believed players who desert to the Mexican circuit should be forever barred from baseball in this country.

Mexican Scout Predicts Mutiny in Dodger Camp

MEXICO CITY, April 4 (AP)—Robert Janis, a scout for the Mexican Baseball League, returned from Florida today and predicted "there will be mutiny in the Brooklyn Dodgers camp unless something happens," and said "somewhat of the same situation exists with the New York Giants."

Janis' statement followed last night's offer by Jorge Pasquel, president of the league, to bet major league club owners $2,000,000 that his circuit would not collapse.

"Nearly all the Dodgers are fed up with Branch Rickey (president of the Brooklyn Club) and are eager to come to Mexico," Janis declared.

(Stories from Daytona Beach, Fla., the Dodgers' training camp, recently said Rickey escorted a "Mr Janis" from the park after he had been observed talking to several Brooklyn players.)

As Pasquel exhibited 17 cablegrams from unidentified U. S. players seeking information, Janis commented: "All they needed was some really important player like Vernon Stephens (formerly of the St. Louis Browns) to break the ice. Now they all want to play here. It is a matter of selecting."

Pasquel said that for this year "we still need about a dozen players who will probably come within the next four weeks."

"Next year," he added, "We'll get about 50 of their players."

Schmidt to Face Les Canadiens

By FRED HOEY

With their backs against the play-offs' wall, the Bruins find themselves in a desperate position as they play Les Canadiens in the third game of the Stanley Cup series tonight at the Garden.

Losing both Montreal games after overtime play, the burden is on the Rossmen. Unless they can grab at least one of the local games, tonight and Sunday night, their chances of winning the famous cup will be decidedly slim.

Milt Schmidt will play, but just how long is a matter of conjecture. Dr. Tom Kelley, team physician who treated Schmidt during the trip home, believes the Bruin ace might be able to shake off the Charley horse before game time

While this is cheerful news to the Bruins, the Canadiens have their woes for Murph Chamberlain, who has played so sensationally in this series, is not expected to play.

The terrific check Capt. Jack Crawford hit him in Tuesday's game cracked two of Murphy's ribs. But these Canadiens can effect such quick recoveries from so-called severe injuries that it wouldn't do to bank too heavily that Chamberlain won't answer Dick Irvin's call for action.

All the Boston writers were led to believe Toe Blake, Canadien ace, was completely done after Saturday's game because of an injured spine. Yet the colorful Toe was dashing around the Bruins in his usual effective manner Tuesday night.

Only those who witnessed the two Montreal games can appreciate how the breaks went against the Bruins. Those games positively should have been in the Bruins' satchel. They were two games chock full of lost opportunities for Boston.

But everyone must hand it to Les Canadiens for cashing in on their openings. It was surprising the way the Frenchmen came roaring back at Boston in the second game. They were hitting the Bruins hard. Of course, the Boston boys responded in their usual fighting manner.

One of the surprising features of the two series has been the light list of injuries. Aside from Chamberlain and Schmidt, nobody has been badly hurt. Dr. Kelley, who knows his hockey as well as his medical chores, declares he never saw two such hard hitting play-offs series with such a minimum of hurts. This speaks highly of the grand condition the players enjoy.

Priest, Donahue Top Sharkey Card

The Sharkey A. A. returns to the firing line one week from next Tuesday, April 16, at the Boston Arena, with four 10-round battles.

Priest will meet Jiggs Donahue of Philadelphia, one of the outstanding 150-pounders on the eastern seaboard.

Brady Hopes to Become Second Mickey Walker

By JACK CONWAY

PATRICK DENNIS BRADY, the 18-year-old ring sensation who clashes with the experienced and skillful Sal Bartolo, NBA featherweight champion, at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tomorrow night, is being referred to as another Mickey Walker. In 27 bouts Brady has scored 23 knockouts, won two decisions, had one draw and lost only one contest. That is a creditable record.

Brady is undoubtedly a very promising ring star, but he will have to show more fistic capabilities than he has had an opportunity to do so far before this writer will rate him with Walker. Mickey, who was rightfully called the "Toy Bulldog," was one of my ring heroes, and I have to see a boxer go through the fistic fires and come out tossing blows before rating him another Walker.

Mickey Walker

Walker made his first Boston ring appearance against Nate Siegal at a show the late Bob McKirdy staged in Mechanics Building. Walker, then virtually unknown, defeated Siegal, and went on to knock out Pal Reed in the Arena and to lose a close decision to Lou Bogash of Bridgeport whom he spotted considerable weight.

Walker won the world's welterweight title by handing Jack Britton a crushing setback in the old Madison Sq. Garden. Mickey dropped Britton to the canvas in the opening round and then went on to pile up a commanding lead. In the 13th round, the "Toy Bulldog" sent Britton to the canvas for a second time. There was some conversation between the boxers when Britton got up and rushed into a clinch. I later asked Walker what was the nature of the conversation.

"Britton clung on to me, and then asked: 'Aren't you satisfied with winning the title, Mickey? Do you want to kill me, too?' I then let up on Britton and permitted him to go the distance."

Lost to Harry Greb

DAVE SHADE, who operates a tavern in Pittsfield, was Walker's most persistent challenger. Shade had knocked out Jimmy Slattery, and was rated highly. Walker outscored Shade after a furious tussle.

The greatest bout Walker ever fought was the one he lost to Harry Greb. The latter's world's middleweight title was at stake. Going into the 14th round it was an even bout. Greb made a furious rally and almost knocked Walker out. The next round Mickey in true bulldog style came back and held his own with Greb.

Walker later put on weight and won the middleweight title by defeating "Tiger" Flowers. He then invaded the heavyweight class, getting a draw with Jack Sharkey and being knocked out by Max Schmeling.

Jack Dempsey was Mickey's ring idol. Walker liked the way the old Manassa Mauler cast caution to the winds and carried the battle to his opponent.

It is difficult to understand how Walker can now content himself with doing paintings after such a colorful career.

"I once sat in front of my fireplace and burned a million dollars in cancelled checks," Mickey said during a visit to Boston.

Money never did mean much to the "Toy Bulldog." He liked to spend it almost as much as he liked to fight.

Brady's Bright Future

IF ONE GIVES Walker's record full consideration one can see that even a promising youngster like Brady has a long way to go before he can equal the old champion's ring feats.

Bartolo figures to outpoint Brady, but if the latter can give a good account of himself and go the full distance he can be tabbed for future reference. He may even prove a second "Toy Bulldog."

Canoe, Wading Well Stocked

By TAP GOODENOUGH

Eagerly awaiting the opening of the Massachusetts trout season are the 100 members of the Mansfield Fish and Game Club, every man a keen angling enthusiast. Two popular streams in their region, Canoe River and Wading River, have been well stocked with brownies, brookies, and rainbows, so the sportsmen are all set to start casting.

"Fly fishing is grand sport," said Norman Thayer, of this organization, "but my favorite pastime is seeking stripers in the Cape Cod Canal. And I'll be there when the first real run begins. Some of the boys have already hooked a few cod beyond the Sagamore Bridge."

The Minuteman Sportsman's Club, of Lexington, is one of the many live groups that have a variety of outdoor interests. Its 200 members delight in squeezing triggers at their two skeet fields, while others like to fish, run their dogs in field trials, or try their hands with pistols and rifles. Some even go in for fox hunting—on foot.

According to Earl Lawrence, the regular monthly meeting of the North Shore Sportsmen's Club will take place in Paul Revere Hall, Lynn, tonight. A special entertainment and speaker, under the auspices of Director Granville Demeritt, will feature the program, which is open to guests.

Pinky Woods Quits Game

DOTHAN, Ala., April 4—George Woods was on his way home to Rutland, Vt., today "through with baseball." The 6-4 right-hander, sold by the Red Sox to Indianapolis of the American Association, told Joe Cronin: "I won't report. If I can't play up here, I'll quit the game."

Woods has been in the Sox chain four years, or since he finished his career at Holy Cross undefeated in 18 starts. His lot has been one bad break after another.

"He's been with us four years," said Cronin, "and he hasn't improved. Why keep him any longer?"

"I'm going back home and teach school," said Woods, who is married and the father of two children.

Braves Buy Ball Park at Hartford

HARTFORD, Ct., April 4 (AP)—The Boston Braves baseball club today owned Bulkeley Stadium, the ball park in which its Hartford farm team plays its games. The amount of money which figured in the deal was withheld.

President Louis B. Perini of the Boston baseball organization, who said the park was purchased outright from David V. Mahoney, Hartford realtor, promised extensive alterations and improvements would begin immediately.

Estalella, Hitting .472, Ranks Fifth

MEXICO CITY, April 4 (AP)—Roberto Estalella, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, is hitting .471 after two weeks of play in the Mexican baseball league, but he ranks only fifth. Theolic Smith leads with a lofty .615 average, followed by Claro Duany, .577, Avelino Canizarez, 538, and Sagua Hernandez, .478.

Other marks include Roberto Ortiz and Nap Reyes, each .429, and Luis Olmo, .400.

Marines Send 8 Boxers Here

By RINGSIDE

The Marines have always loved to fight, and it is only natural that the "Leathernecks" should send a team of boxers to Boston to compete in the national ring championships at the Garden next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The eight marine boxers hail from the base at Cherry Point, N. C.

Joe Rindone of Roxbury, light heavyweight, and John Miller of Hingham, bantamweight, will be included in the list of Marine boxers.

Rindone has been in the Marine Corps for two years. Since the war ended, he has won numerous service tournaments. Miller, a member of the Marine Corps for two and a half years, has also gained his share of victories.

With amateur boxers arriving in Boston from all parts of the United States, the gyms operated by Harry Kelley and by Johnny Buckley are having plenty of activity. The Hawaiian boxers, training at Buckley's gym, have attracted much attention.

President Tam Sheehan of the New England A. A. U. says the nationals will furnish intense competition.

Bertelli Hopes to Return to Notre Dame

HOLYOKE, April 4 (AP)—Lt. Angelo Bertelli of the Marines said today he was awaiting word from Notre Dame University, where he starred at football, as to whether he would be permitted to enter school at the semester beginning next week to complete his education.

Bertelli says that if he is permitted to do so he would be graduated in June. He expected to be out of the service shortly and plans to play with the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Football League next fall.

Fight Fans Revive Boom Time Contempt for Money

By AUSTEN LAKE

GET PLENTY OF CORNSILK and cotton wadding to stuff in your ears. Because you are apt to hear a goshamighty screech come from New York after the Louis-Conn fight on June 19.

Austen Lake

These agony yells will come from gullible ringside customers who are paying $100 for seats in lower Harlem on the false idea they are going to sit in the fighters' laps or at least with their chins resting on the ring apron. But "ringside" is just a figure of promotional speech. "Ringside" denotes the elastic area as far from the locus of action as there are patrons willing to pay $100. Thus the promoter is free to add new layers of "ringside" chairs as fast as he sells his tickets, extending the family circle until it crowds the outfield bleachers and steerage sections of the grandstand. From which distance the fight scaffold looks like a cupcake and the fighters like whiskers on a bum's chin.

They Won't Listen

I AM CONSCIOUS THAT I am shouting in a rainbarrel and that my warning won't deter a single fight filbert from laying down his yard of lettuce to see the big business. Warn a fight fan of an impending chump-trap and he'll trip the trigger to see how it works.

F'instance I recall with crystal clarity how, before the Louis-Baer mockery in the middle '30s I printed a public warning that the promoter had issued twin sets of "ringside" tickets, one set numbering the rows 1, 2, 3, etc., and the other lettering them A, B, C . . . Each set bore the legend "Ringside."

I advised the patrons not to shake hands with themselves if they owned tickets bearing "Row 1." Because instead of being close enough to catch bottle samples of the bloodshed they would find themselves just 27 rows back of the large press section, or behind the last letter of the alphabet, which is Z, standing for zany.

Yes, I gave my readers advance notice of this very naked cheat which was willfully devised by the sponsor on the theory that the dumb public would not suspect its calamity until it had squeezed through the sheep runs and into the vast prairie labeled "ringside." By which time the promoter would have trucked away the admission money to the bank and left the patrons to bay their woe at the moon.

The best the fight patrons get is the worst of it and the history of the industry is filled with such little frauds, skillfully kept just inside the twilight zone between outright swindle and lawful fake. For the promoters who specialize in heavyweight championships trade on the public's short memory and swift forgiveness as soon as fresh sucker bait is offered. They do not regard the fight patron as very bright, and past experience would indicate they have some justification for this premise.

Anyway, my warning did not restrain any customers from storming the Louis-Baer boxoffice and finding, for the most part, their carcasses parked a full hog shout from the ring. The ringside price was relatively small then, at $25 the squat, but the gross take amounted to some $900,000. For your heavyweight fight pecan is the most inherent sucker known to sport, if you will permit such crass cynicism.

Mike Learned from Tex

I HAVE NEVER SEEN A seating plan for any heavyweight championship and I doubt that such exists except privately in the safe of the 20th Century Club, which holds a monopoly on all Louis operations. There is a reason for this! It enables the propriator to skin the choicest locations out of the deck for circulation among Broadway's ticket speculators at fancier than standard prices. Which is why unlimited quanties of the better pasteboards turn up at the bootleg stores and with the curbstone vendors.

THE FIGHT BOSS OF THE 20th Century Club is Mike Jacobs, who learned his art under the able tutelage of the late Tex Rickard, an unconscionable old wizard who always scalped his own shows by slipping bundles of his best tickets to characters who kicked back a slice of the extra profits.

Tex was the fight czar in the old Madison Square Garden era of sellouts and always earmarked thousands of ringside seats for his personal account, explaining to the federal tax sleuths that these served the excessive demand of political moochers, influential friends and the greedy needs of the press.

Among my favorite memories is a tale told by Bill Carey, who stepped into control of the Garden Corp. when Tex suddenly died. Bill said he was sitting in his office one day when a furtive character with a mouthful of barrail brass and a habitual expression of smelling something sour entered. The character, said Bill, slapped down a bundle of Treasury notes. He just flipped 'em down, said Bill, and though there must have been many thousands in the bundle, he turned silently toward the door.

Carey thumbed the mysterious wad and asked, "But why are you being so kind to me?"

Bill said the stranger turned from his natural sallow yellow to a slow ashy gray as he realized that Rickard had left no written record of his ticket-scalping traffic and that he (the stranger) has just paid a large sum on a debt that existed only as a moral obligation in a dead man's brain. He seemed about to burst into tears over such a wicked waste but suddenly demanded, "You're gonna work as usual, ainchu?"

It was Rickard's share of his underground ticket disposal system by which he had inflated his income and which was the forerunner of the modern black market. But being natively honest and therefore a failure in the promotion industry Carey soon resigned back to his engineering business.

Since 1941 there has been very little to scalp in the fight business and opportunity to practice the gentle art of chiseling people with acres of seats misleadingly labeled "Ringside." The fight promoters haven't looked on a dollar for a long time and so perhaps are pardonably hysterical in the face of fresh funds. Thus by charging $100 for seats in the suburbs, they know if it skins the citizens they can readily grow other skins with small discomfort. But the citizen's pain is nothing like the agony of the promoters if they are forced to give the sucker an even break and thereby amputate their own most sensitive portions, the region of cash profits. Not that!

Ruth for Mex Jumpers; Flays U.S. Spring Grind

(Special to Boston Evening American)

NEW YORK, April 4—Babe Ruth is all for the players hopping to Mexico if it means increased pay checks. "A baseball career is a short one and a fellow would have to be a sucker to pass up a chance to better himself," said Babe today. "America doesn't own the game. It belongs to the world."

Moreover he thinks it is to the interest of this country to have Mexico, and other nations, boost the sport, show it at its best, with big leaguers cavorting on the diamond.

"I don't know what their objective is, but if they're using it only as an advertisement for their country, getting the Mexican kids to like and play baseball, that's enough for me," exclaimed the idol of every kid in the U. S., past and present.

"Those youngsters, too, should know about a game as great as baseball, how it really should be played."

"Unfortunately I don't think that Mexican league can stand up very long," he continued while leaning back in an easy chair in his Riverside Drive apartment. "The high prices they're paying for American players seem impossible. The league must flop. Mexico hasn't enough fans nor ball parks large enough to take in that kind of dough. Why, even a New York club couldn't afford such guarantees and wages.

"But you still can't blame a fellow like Mickey Owen for quitting Brooklyn, providing those Mexican offers are bona fide. Owen owes nothing to the majors. If he remained in Brooklyn and had a bad year, or had his value lessened by breaking a leg while trying to stop a runner at the plate or some other injury, the next season the owners would tell him they're sorry and ship him off to the minors.

"In organized ball, the general rule is a one-year contract with a ten-day clause. As soon as they think you're through, they tell it to you—and you're through! Mexico is handing out three-year contracts. So if a player has one off year, he still gets another chance."

"Now, mind you, I hold no brief against any of the big league owners," the Babe cautioned. "I did all right by them, and they did all right by me. I'm set for life. But baseball is a cold-blooded business. The owners are in the game for profit, and rightly so. But at the same time the player is in there for profit, too, and must protect himself.

"I once had a chance to jump the majors myself. Back in 1914, when I was with Baltimore, the Federal League offered me $10,000 to sign and $10,000 a season. That was tremendous money then and I was sorely tempted.

"The fact that I had a contract with Jack Dunn, then manager of Baltimore, made no difference. I turned the bid down only because of the threat I would be banned for life. What if the Federal League failed? I couldn't stand the thought of never being permitted to play again.

"Well, the Federal League did crack up, and what did the American and National do? They welcomed everybody back. Jack Quinn, who quit the American League to pitch in the Federals for five times his previous salary, returned to his old club without even a mean word directed at him. I have an idea the same thing would happen now.

"Another thing, those exhibition games today are cutting short the careers of all the players. In my day, you had 20-year ballplayers, Cobb, Wagner, myself and others. But now, if they last 12 seasons they'll be doing better than I expect.

"Look at the Yankees, playing 47 exhibition games before the season starts. Why, in June, they'll be all petered out. Can you blame these fellows for grabbing all the money they can in a hurry?

"The most exhibitions I ever remember playing was 27. And that was late in my career. It wasn't until 1918 that I played as much as one exhibition. Ed Barrow started it when I was with the Red Sox and the number increased as we went along.

"The owners tell you when the baseball year starts. They can make it Feb. 1 if they want, as long as you're playing for them. But if a ballplayer gets a chance to make some money on his own at the end of the league season, he's permitted two weeks of barnstorming, and that's all. They tell him it's harmful to his career, that he has had enough baseball for one summer. Oouch!

"And how do you like that new twist of first and second teams taking separate spring exhibition tours? Instead of having the entire squad travel together so that a player can get a rest after a couple of innings, now he must play the full game. The subs are in action elsewhere.

"I stand for the ballplayer, always did, and if he can get more money in Mexico, good luck to him.

"Incidentally," he said as a parting shot, "if those Mexicans make me a good offer, rest assured I'll consider it."

Life-Ban?

MIAMI, April 4 (AP)—Clark Griffith, who led organized baseball's successful fight against the outlaw Federal League, is ready to fight the Mexican League by barring for life all players who jump south of the border.

The owner of the Senators said in an interview that he believed players who desert to the Mexican circuit should be forever barred from baseball in this country.

Mexican Scout Predicts Mutiny in Dodger Camp

MEXICO CITY, April 4 (AP)—Robert Janis, a scout for the Mexican Baseball League, returned from Florida today and predicted "there will be mutiny in the Brooklyn Dodgers camp unless something happens," and said "somewhat of the same situation exists with the New York Giants."

Janis' statement followed last night's offer by Jorge Pasquel, president of the league, to bet major league club owners $2,000,000 that his circuit would not collapse.

"Nearly all the Dodgers are fed up with Branch Rickey (president of the Brooklyn Club) and are eager to come to Mexico," Janis declared.

(Stories from Daytona Beach, Fla., the Dodgers' training camp, recently said Rickey escorted a "Mr Janis" from the park after he had been observed talking to several Brooklyn players.)

As Pasquel exhibited 17 cablegrams from unidentified U. S. players seeking information, Janis commented: "All they needed was some really important player like Vernon Stephens (formerly of the St. Louis Browns) to break the ice. Now they all want to play here. It is a matter of selecting."

Pasquel said that for this year "we still need about a dozen players who will probably come within the next four weeks."

"Next year," he added. "We'll get about 50 of their players."

Schmidt to Face Les Canadiens

By FRED HOEY

With their backs against the play-offs' wall, the Bruins find themselves in a desperate position as they play Les Canadiens in the third game of the Stanley Cup series tonight at the Garden.

Losing both Montreal games after overtime play, the burden is on the Rossmen. Unless they can grab at least one of the local games, tonight and Sunday night, their chances of winning the famous cup will be decidedly slim.

Milt Schmidt will play, but just how long is a matter of conjecture. Dr. Tom Kelley, team physician who treated Schmidt during the trip home, believes the Bruin ace might be able to shake off the Charley horse before game time.

While this is cheerful news to the Bruins, the Canadiens have their woes for Murph Chamberlain, who has played so sensationally in this series, is not expected to play.

The terrific check Capt. Jack Crawford hit him in Tuesday's game cracked two of Murphy's ribs. But these Canadiens can effect such quick recoveries from so-called severe injuries that it wouldn't do to bank too heavily that Chamberlain won't answer Dick Irvin's call for action.

All the Boston writers were led to believe Toe Blake, Canadien ace, was completely done after Saturday's game because of an injured spine. Yet the colorful Toe was dashing around the Bruins in his usual effective manner Tuesday night.

Only those who witnessed the two Montreal games can appreciate how the breaks went against the Bruins. Those games positively should have been in the Bruins' satchel. They were two games chock full of lost opportunities for Boston.

But everyone must hand it to Les Canadiens for cashing in on their openings. It was surprising the way the Frenchmen came roaring back at Boston in the second game. They were hitting the Bruins hard. Of course, the Boston boys responded in their usual fighting manner.

One of the surprising features of the two series has been the light list of injuries. Aside from Chamberlain and Schmidt, nobody has been badly hurt. Dr. Kelley, who knows his hockey as well as his medical chores, declares he never saw two such hard hitting play-offs series with such a minimum of hurts. This speaks highly of the grand condition the players enjoy.

Brady Hopes to Become Second Mickey Walker

By JACK CONWAY

PATRICK DENNIS BRADY, the 18-year-old ring sensation who clashes with the experienced and skillful Sal Bartolo, NBA featherweight champion, at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tomorrow night, is being referred to as another Mickey Walker. In 27 bouts Brady has scored 23 knockouts, won two decisions, had one draw and lost only one contest. That is a creditable record.

Brady is undoubtedly a very promising ring star, but he will have to show more fistic capabilities than he has had an opportunity to do so far before this writer will rate him with Walker. Mickey, who was rightfully called the "Toy Bulldog," was one of my ring heroes, and I have to see a boxer go through the fistic fires and come out tossing blows before rating him another Walker.

Mickey Walker

Walker made his first Boston ring appearance against Nate Siegal at a show the late Bob McKirdy staged in Mechanics Building. Walker, then virtually unknown, defeated Siegal, and went on to knock out Pal Reed in the Arena and to lose a close decision to Lou Bogash of Bridgeport whom he spotted considerable weight.

Walker won the world's welterweight title by handing Jack Britton a crushing setback in the old Madison Sq. Garden. Mickey dropped Britton to the canvas in the opening round and then went on to pile up a commanding lead. In the 13th round, the "Toy Bulldog" sent Britton to the canvas for a second time. There was some conversation between the boxers when Britton got up and rushed into a clinch. I later asked Walker what was the nature of the conversation.

"Britton clung on to me, and then asked: 'Aren't you satisfied with winning the title, Mickey? Do you want to kill me, too?' I then let up on Britton and permitted him to go the distance."

Lost to Harry Greb

DAVE SHADE, who operates a tavern in Pittsfield, was Walker's most persistent challenger. Shade had knocked out Jimmy Slattery, and was rated highly. Walker outscored Shade after a furious tussle.

The greatest bout Walker ever fought was the one he lost to Harry Greb. The latter's world's middleweight title was at stake. Going into the 14th round it was an even bout. Braves Buy Ball Park at Hartford

HARTFORD, Ct., April 4 (AP)—The Boston Braves baseball club today owned Bulkeley Stadium, the ball park in which its Hartford farm team plays its games. The amount of money which figured in the deal was withheld.

President Louis B. Perini of the Boston baseball organization, who said the park was purchased outright from David V. Mahoney, Hartford realtor, promised extensive alterations and improvements would begin immediately.

Estalella, Hitting .472, Ranks Fifth

MEXICO CITY, April 4 (AP)—Roberto Estalella, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, is hitting .471 after two weeks of play in the Mexican baseball league, but he ranks only fifth. Theolic Smith leads with a lofty .615 average, followed by Claro Duany, .577; Avelino Canizarez, 538, and Sagua Hernandez, .478.

Other marks include Roberto Ortiz and Nap Reyes, each .429, and Luis Olmo, .400.

Marines Send 8 Boxers Here

By RINGSIDE

The Marines have always loved to fight, and it is only natural that the "Leathernecks" should send a team of boxers to Boston to compete in the national ring championships at the Garden next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The eight marine boxers hail from the base at Cherry Point, N. C.

Joe Rindone of Roxbury, light heavyweight, and John Miller of Hingham, bantamweight, will be included in the list of Marine boxers.

Rindone has been in the Marine Corps for two years. Since the war ended, he has won numerous service tournaments. Miller, a member of the Marine Corps for two and a half years, has also gained his share of victories.

With amateur boxers arriving in Boston from all parts of the United States, the gyms operated by Harry Kelley and by Johnny Buckley are having plenty of activity. The Hawaiian boxers, training at Buckley's gym, have attracted much attention.

President Tam Sheehan of the New England A. A. U. says the nationals will furnish intense competition.

Bertelli Hopes to Return to Notre Dame

HOLYOKE, April 4 (AP)—Lt. Angelo Bertelli of the Marines said today he was awaiting word from Notre Dame University, where he starred at football, as to whether he would be permitted to enter school at the semester beginning next week to complete his education.

Bertelli says that if he is permitted to do so he would be graduated in June. He expected to be out of the service shortly and plans to play with the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Football League next fall.

Here Come the Red Sox!

Dom DiMaggio Hailed Greater Than Speaker

By HERB FINNEGAN

DOTHAN, Ala., April 4—The youngest of the outfield DiMaggios is back in Red Sox flannels after a three-year absence, looking not one whit different than when he left in '42. He's touched plenty of bases since he last saw Fenway Park, but most of them were naval bases in the Southwest Pacific.

Dom DiMaggio

Dom DiMaggio entered the Navy as a coxswain in November, '42. He went overseas May 27, 1944, arriving in Australia in July. He spent the following nine months organizing a baseball team, and the only "name" player he had was Ken Chapman, Mansfield lad who tried out with the Sox this spring.

"I had no equipment to start with," said the fleet center fielder. "But little by little I scraped together uniforms, gloves, etc., from the supply depot (Brisbane), even got spikes which we attached to GI shoes."

The team played once or twice a week, swept through its schedule undefeated and was challenged by the Army all-stars.

"I figured they were too good for us," said Dom, "so I put in a hurry call for Charlie Wagner. He arrived in time to set them back on their heels."

Dom went to Subic Bay, Philippines, in June of '45 and played a few games with Benny McCoy of the A's. He recalled with some satisfaction that the last time at bat in Australia he hit a home run, and his last time at bat in the Philippines he homered off the Nats' Early Wynn. He arrived home last January and was discharged as a chief petty officer.

He hits a lot of home runs, does bespectacled Dom. He hit 14 in '42, yet because he batted leadoff his runs-batted-in total was a lowly 48. That is one of his minor gripes, and he hopes this season to bat fifth or sixth so that he can drive in 100 runs and get above the .300 mark for the first time since his freshman year of '40.

In his last season, '39, under Lefty O'Doul at 'Frisco, Dom hit 14 home runs, 18 triples, 48 doubles, batted 360, and had 82 RBI. He was among the 10 leading minor league sluggers.

"I'd like to rank among the 10 major league sluggers this year," he said. He made a good start last month. He was hitting the ball hard.

As a fielder and thrower he has no superior. In the nightly arguments in Sarasota, the Di Maggios were brought up continually. It was conceded that Joe was the best all-round player of the three because of his tremendous hitting, but Dom was rated the best thrower and perhaps a bit better than Vince in the field.

"He's a better fielder than Speaker ever was," said Hughey Duffy of the Sox Dominic, and old Duff has seen them all for 50 years or more.

"I never did see Speaker," chirped Rudy York, "but he couldn't have been better than Dom. Why, I hit a line drive that was going over the wire fence in Detroit, started giving it the 'home run trot' when Di Mag grabbed the fence with his bare hand, pulled himself up to the top, stuck up his glove and speared the ball backhand. I could have shot him."

There was a day in Philadelphia Dom was pretty good, too. Crash Davis, who needed the hit, lined a drive over shortstop. It looked like a certain triple. Dom raced in from center field, dived and took it one foot from the ground back-handed. In the very next inning he ran deep into center field, speared a smash from Valo's bat just as it was about to hit the fence 420 feet away. Distance between the catches must have been 300 feet. That's the amount of ground Di Maggio covers.

"He plays the outfield like a shortstop," said Joe Cronin. "He does a lot of things that don't show in the averages."

How highly Cronin rates Dom was seen last month when he refused to trade Dom to Cleveland for third baseman Ken Keltner. Fenway Park is made to order for Keltner, but center field is a more important position than third base. "Like cutting off one ear to save the other," said Cronin.

Dom is the shortest of the Di Maggios, sons of a San Francisco immigrant fisherman. He's also the fleetest, the best base-runner. He stand 5-9 but has shoulders, chest and arms of a giant. "From pulling fish out of the bay," he smiled.

He'll pull no more fish out of the bay. Just before he left for Sarasota, he opened a swank cocktail longe in San Francisco.

Prediction: He'll bat lead-off again. He's invaluable in the spot. And those Dom-Pesky hit-and-run bunts on which Dom scoots to third are something to behold.

TOMORROW—JOHNNY PESKY

It's 'Bama Weather

By JOE CASHMAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 4—As the Braves, along with the Detroit Tigers, amble through Alabama—Mobile yesterday, here today, Birmingham tomorrow—it's fitting and proper that a few words be typed about our Carvel (Bama) Rowell, from Citronel, suh.

Other Tribesmen may have faltered in the early games of the spring series with the champions. Never Rowell. He's been the Braves' best hitter; their best outfielder.

"It's the Alabama climate," he drawls.

It's nothing of the kind. It's the natural class of the young man who is just returning to the majors after a four-year stretch in the Army.

'Bama' was with the Braves two seasons before the war. He was a heavy-hitting, hot and cold fielding second-sacker back there. He did considerable ball playing while under arms, both in this country and in Germany.

Ball players who saw him 'Over There' reported he was playing second base and playing it like nobody's business.

"I couldn't have been worse than I was before going away," was 'Bama's' reply when he returned.

"It makes no difference whether Rowell was good or bad at second. He'll be out in left field for this club, and he'll be the best in the league," reported Billy Southworth.

Thus far, Rowell certainly has made his manager look good as a prophet.

The Tigers admittedly have the best pitching staff in the majors, but 'Bama' has been hitting them at better than a .400 gait.

That's not exactly surprising. He was a .300 hitter with the Braves in 1940, his first season in the big show.

It's his fielding that has been incredibitable. His outfielder experience before coming a soldier was very limited. Yet all spring, he has been patrolling the pastime like a fellow who never played anywhere else.

He's exceptionally fast—only fleeter Warrior is Hopp. He's uncanny in his judgment of fly balls and no outfielder in the league covers more ground. And no gardener has a better arm, unless it be Ronnie Northey of the Phils.

In short, the ugly duckling of the 1942 Braves infield is the shining light of the 1946 Braves outfield.

It wasn't Carvel's fault, by the way, that the Braves were blanked, 2 to 0, by Dizzy Trout in Mobile yesterday.

Williams Belts First '46 Home Run

By HERB FINNEGAN

DOTHAN, Ala., April 4—Al Flair, 6-4 left-handed first base rookie, was returned to the Varsity today as the Red Sox faced the Cincinnati Reds in a single game here. Flair, away four years, has been playing with the Sox "B" team in exhibition games. He faced no picnic this afternoon, however, because George Burpo, wild and left-handed, was the Reds' pitcher. Starting pitcher for the Sox was Charlie Wagner. Leon Culberson remained at third base and was lifted to the lead-off shot in the batting order.

Ted Williams thrilled the throng and his teammates alike when he hit his first postwar home run in the third inning.

Miller, ss	DiMaggio, cf
Hatton, 3b	Metkovich, rf
Shokes, 1b	Flair, 1b
Lakeman, c	Conroy, c
Burpo, p	C. Wagner, p

Umpires — Jones (AL), Goetz (NL) and Boyer (AL).

FIRST INNING

REDS—Clay doubled. McCormick doubled, scoring Clay. Frey flied out. Kluskewski flied out. Miller was thrown out by Culberson. ONE RUN.

RED SOX—Culberson flied out. Pesky out to Shokes, unassisted. Williams walked. Doerr walked. DiMaggio fanned. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

REDS—Hatton walked, Shokes singled, Hatton reaching third. Lakeman walked, filling the bases. Burpo hit to Culberson, and Hatton was out at the plate. Clay popped to Pesky. McCormick flied out. NO RUNS.

RED SOX — Metkovich flied out. Flair fanned. Conroy fouled out. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

REDS—Frey tripled. Kluszewski flied out, Frey scoring. Miller was thrown out. Hatton flied out. ONE RUN.

RED SOX—Wagner fanned. Pesky was safe when Kluszewski dropped his fly. Then Ted Williams hit a home run over the right field fence, 400 feet from the plate. Culberson and Pesky scoring ahead of him. It was his first homer of the training season. Doerr singled. DiMaggio walked. Metkovich flied to McCormick. Flair doubled, scoring Doerr and DiMaggio. Conroy walked. Wagner fanned. FIVE RUNS.

Eli Plans Crew, Eyes Harvard

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 4 (AP)—Bob Kiphuth, Yale's athletic director, today reported that the Blue would be represented by a crew this season, that Dick Pocock, builder of Eli shells since 1922, would be in charge and that negotiations were under way for a revival of the Yale-Harvard classic next June.

"Crew, the only major sport at Yale to be curtailed completely during the war, will be resumed," Kiphuth said, "on a limited basis this spring and the probable competition with Harvard is the only formal race being contemplated."

Pocock, whose home is in nearby Milford, has long been identified with the sport at Yale, as the builder of shells and 150-pound freshman coach.

Yale's former coach was Ed Leader, now engaged in private business here.

Holmes Given Chance to Snap Batting Slump

By JOE CASHMAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 4—Tommy Holmes was given another chance to snap out of his prolonged batting slump and Nanny Fernandez was well enough to return to third base as the Braves reached the halfway mark in their 10-game exhibition series with the world's champion Detroit Tigers at Cramton Stadium today.

Still seeking their first victory in the series, the Tribe called on Jim Wallace, who succeeded Johnny Sain in the sixth inning of the opening game in Lakeland last Saturday and gave up three runs in two innings.

The Bengals relied on little Tommy Bridges, ancient curveball artist, who was making his first appearance in the series.

The sixth game of the series will be played at Birmingham tomorrow. Virgil Trucks, a Birmingham boy, will start for the Tigers, seeking his second triumph over the Tribe. He blinded our heroes for nine innings last Sunday.

Earl Reid, a Birmingham gift to the Braves, will see some mound action, but Johnny Sain will start against the Detroiters.

Masters' Golf Renewal Opens

NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (INS)—Fifty-one of the nation's handpicked golfers today started in the first masters championship since 1942.—A gallery of more than 1000 saw the opening of the 72-hole tournament.

The weather was perfect, except for a high wind.

Byron Nelson was among the late starters and was paired with Bobby Jones, creator of the masters' championship, who customarily plays with the title holder by way of launching the event, first held in 1934.

Leland Gibson, Kansas City professional, and Bob Cochran of St. Louis, one of five amateurs entered, were the first to tee off.

Smacked by a Star—Allen Stanley, a star of the Boston Olympics hockey team, received a pleasant surprise from Actress Peggy Ryan when the team arrived in Los Angeles for an East-West series with the L. A. Monarchs. Two of his teammates, Dutch Delmonte (left) and Paul Ronty, watch the welcoming hug and kiss. Peggy has been named mascot of the Hub team.

Sarazen to Play In British Open

DETROIT, April 4 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, businessman-golfer, said today he was making preparations to fly to England to compete in the British Open Golf Championship in July. Sarazen won the British title in 1932.

"I have every intention of going over for the tournament," said Sarazen, who was here today on business. "I haven't played much golf recently but hope to settle down and get in shape for the British Open."

WILLIAMS, CARTER MEET

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—Holman Williams, veteran Detroit and Chicago middleweight, and Johnny Carter of Philadelphia will meet in the 10-round main event of a boxing bout at the Coliseum tonight. It will be Carter's first fistic appearance in Chicago.
